The entertainment given at Good Templar hall last evening was largely attended. The instrumental music by the Misses Croff and Robb was very well rendered, the reading by Mrs. Blaisdell well received, and the recitations by Little Ethel Knox were loudly cheered.

Suit was brought by George D. Herick & Co. against A. Owen Crozier yesterday for $500 damages. They allege that Crozier traded $500 worth of stock in the Fire Ladder and Truck company for a piano, representing that it was worth that sum. They now allege that the stock is worthless and ask that Crozier be compelled to make it good.

MUSIC AND DRAMA. Downing's engagement has closed and the heroic tragedian leaves with new-made friends in great numbers.

The engagement was a profitable one and it was a dramatic success, the only cloud to mar the brilliant horizon being the poor talent displayed by the majority of the supporting company.

Mr. Downing, Mr. Holt and Eugene Blair are artists, and their work at each performance was meritorious. "The White Pilgrim" affords excellent opportunity for the display of talent in both Downing and Holt, and in fact the characters of the latter as Sigurd was really his best work here.

It was in the Russian suburb of Vienna, in the hall of the "Swan," with a little orchestra of 14 men, that the elder Strauss made his mark. His first works, which were given publicly on this occasion, were called "Taubert Waltzer," and it was quickly followed by the "Kottenbrucken Waltzer," both of which were immediately caught up and played all over Europe.

His success there was enabled him to add to the strength of his little band of players, and to write for an increased band, with the certainty of having a use for his composition. He was shortly induced to return to the "Sperl" with his enlarged orchestra, on a six years' contract, during the fulfillment of which he not only interlarded himself in the hearts of the music loving public of Vienna, but made himself and the "Sperl" famous all over Europe.

It is, therefore, over sixty years that the Strauss orchestra has been a name to conjure with, and its reputation has maintained unimpaired. The director has passed from the elder to the younger John and finally to his son Franz, who for nearly twenty years directed the famous band in all the leading cities of Europe.

Another large audience witnessed Saumet's grand tragedy, "The Gladiator" last evening and here Downing, in the title role, was at his best. Unlike the version in which the tragedian appeared two years ago, the action of the play is taken at a time after the coming of Christ and the gladiator, instead of recognizing in the arena a brother in the person of another gladiator, he finds in the person of the young Christian woman, Neodamia, his long lost child and this recognition and his refusal to slay his fair daughter is one of the grand

The Purchase of Eaton and Company's Stock (formerly known as the "BEE HIVE") AT A LITTLE LESS THAN 50 CENTS ON THE DOLLAR enables us to Announce to the Public of Grand Rapids the most

EXTRAORDINARY SALE OF DRY GOODS,

Which has probably ever occurred in this city since its foundation.

Ladies, Gentlemen, Heads of Families and Others

Having their interests and economical objects in view cannot possibly allow this splendid opportunity to pass.

During the past week our Sales of DRESS GOODS, SILKS, ETC.

Were something more than gratifying. Ladies from every portion of the City crowded our counters and but few failed to secure a selection from the many bargains.

NOW FOR ANOTHER LIVELY WEEK AND THE Opening of a New and Vigorous Concern

FOUNDED UPON Modern Ideas Cash Business No Losses Close Prices

and seeking no Profits save those which result from "Serving our Customers well."

During the coming week will be incorporated the "WEST SIDE DRY GOODS COMPANY" of Grand Rapids, under the State Laws of Michigan, with capital, life, energy, push and perseverance which, we believe, to build up a LARGE AND RELIABLE DRY GOODS HOUSE.

To do this, we are clearing out all old goods and all small articles and wares foreign to the dry goods business, changing the character of the stock to a better class of materials, and to what may be found in Dry Goods houses. The following shall be the

"FIVE LAMPS OF THE ARCHITECTURE OF OUR BUSINESS."

RECIPROCITY. For every cent we incur in our store we return full value. We expense no losses and you are never taxed to pay for any misfortune. We have no ONE PRICE FOR ALL, so there is no discrimination made at our counters. Goods marked in plain figures; all have the same advantage and to no one is given any special concession, commission or discount.	UNIFORMITY. We have but ONE PRICE, and hold out no alluring bargains in one department to facilitate the sale of goods in another at a higher price. We have no "leaders" and therefore no line and halting array of superannuated articles. Plus a fractional profit on distribution all our prices are manufacturers prices and every department is conducted in the interest of the purchasing public. All goods cheerfully exchanged, and when not satisfactory money refunded.	ADAPTIVENESS. We will carry no dead stock and will allow no department to get into arrears. We will be prompt to introduce novelties, and quick to discard new currents of public demands. Standing as we do, in close and constant contact with all classes of purchasers and with facilities for obtaining all goods from first hands at rock bottom prices unexcelled by any concern in the country, the fault be ours it will fall to satisfy every taste, administrator to every want and meet every necessity within the limits of our business.	INTEGRITY. We will never give more of a given article at a given price than we have to sell. If the amount in stock is limited it is so declared and is neither exaggerated nor underated. Absolute accuracy will be the uniform characteristic of every claim we will make in our advertisements, and no employee will be permitted to make unauthoritative statements which cannot be sustained. A pound will never mean it unless it does; a dozen yards will mean always 12 times 36 inches. Upon these principles we are determined to win.	MODERATION. We have everything to gain by trading upon a narrow margin of profit. Our rents are low, our expenses small in comparison with business houses generally, and we give the public the advantage of those with close buying. We love to make our cash discounts. Our business will grow steadily, because we will be found hard and everlastingly at it, carrying out the principles we have announced here. We buy cheap, we can sell cheap.
