

THE DISTINGUISHED STATESMAN TALK LAST NIGHT.

An Immense Audience Listens to an Able Speech—The Tin Plate Tariff America for Americans.

If Hartman's hall can comfortably seat 4,000 people, at least 4,500 crowded into that auditorium last evening to hear McKinley in defense of his famous bill. At least 2,000 people were unable to gain admission and were obliged to go out without even a glimpse of the most talked of man in America. Most of the audience were, however, in a measure disappointed. Not that Mr. McKinley was an able speaker and that he was a rhetorician, but they expected to hear a more elaborate and minute explanation of the bill, and to have several provisions gone over in detail. The speaker, however, was somewhat brief as it was found it made no converts, it at least strengthened the faithful, and stiffened the spinal column of the wavering and doubtful.

The chairman of the evening was W. J. McLaughlin. He had a very high idea of the great party which saved the nation and provided Mr. Smith with a fat office, and in introducing the speaker he took occasion to make some complimentary remarks and in fact somewhat high flow language. Mr. McKinley is a stocky built man, with a bulging forehead and a resolute mouth. His face is smoothly shaven. He wore the appearance of a man who has been a long time in the public voice was husky from much speaking. The first part of his speech was a definition of the divergent views of the two great parties upon the tariff.

He declared, said he had substance near a million dollars every 24 hours to meet the ordinary expenses of the government. The only way to raise it is by taxation. The sentiment of the people is against direct taxation, and the best way to raise the money is by the indirect taxation of a tariff on imports. The Democrats say that the tariff should be levied for revenue only. The Republicans say that it should be levied for protection as well as for revenue. American industries and American laborers, this is the design of the McKinley bill. It was made for America and for other nations. It was made to protect American homes and to give to every American boy and girl the very best of everything.

The Democrats cry for raw materials, so that we can compete in the markets of the world. The bill allows an American to buy his material abroad, but it does not allow him to sell his goods when he sells his material. It allows him to pay him 90 per cent of the duty he has to pay on raw materials. What more can they ask?

The McKinley bill is the best, richest and nearest market in the world. Our 60,000,000 of people buy raw materials from other parts of the world. They have more money to buy with. Ninety-two per cent of our farm products are sold to other parts of the world. They have more money to buy with. Ninety-two per cent of our farm products are sold to other parts of the world. They have more money to buy with. Ninety-two per cent of our farm products are sold to other parts of the world. They have more money to buy with.

They say boots and shoes are being made in the United States and leather has been reduced 30 per cent. Shoelaces, shoes, socks, trousers, hats, coats, suits, and everything else that is made of leather, sugar—all have been cut down.

We have increased the duty on tin plate to 20 per cent. For every tin plate we import we have lost a tin plate. We have increased the duty on tin plate for the same reason that we have increased the duty on tin plate. We have increased the duty on tin plate for the same reason that we have increased the duty on tin plate.

At the close of the speech, the chairman, William Allen Smith, stepped to the front of the hall and introduced three cheers for Mr. McKinley, which were given with a will.

THE PEOPLES COLUMN.

Agents and Convancers. Editor—The Editor of the Morning Journal on your paper of Saturday I came upon an article in the "Public Opinion" column that, in justice to myself and others of my sex, demands my criticism. I am sorry that necessary convancers have not been "fairly tried" mentioned, and sincerely beg your pardon for doing so. But I wish to say to her that the agents were not all "crooked" and some are still alive, and all respecting the novice is "honest" (if I may be allowed the phrase).

Tastes differ in regard to women agents being the most objectionable. For instance, ladies who can see the true spirit that belongs to the profession, i.e., that of maintaining herself by honest labor, instead of being supported by those who are less able to support her, or by some one, or few that will support her, is a thing to be proud of.

There is the novice in every trade, and every experience makes one perfect. And if they insist on taking your order for their wares, it is no more than your grocer does. As to asking you to borrow the money of your neighbor, I would say, in very many cases it is not for the good of the borrower, but for the lender. And if they insist on taking your order for their wares, it is no more than your grocer does. As to asking you to borrow the money of your neighbor, I would say, in very many cases it is not for the good of the borrower, but for the lender.

But this "racket" of getting your name on their order book, for a few dollars, is not for the good of the borrower, but for the lender. And if they insist on taking your order for their wares, it is no more than your grocer does. As to asking you to borrow the money of your neighbor, I would say, in very many cases it is not for the good of the borrower, but for the lender.

Every agent understands that it is not for the good of the borrower, but for the lender. And if they insist on taking your order for their wares, it is no more than your grocer does. ANOTHER REUNION. Veterans of the Tenth Michigan Cavalry Exchange Greetings.

The fourth annual reunion of the Tenth Michigan Cavalry was held in this city yesterday, about 200 being present from a roster of 800. The veterans assembled at Elks' hall at 2:30, and from there visited the grounds at some and other places of interest. They reassembled again at the same hall at 6:30 and elected the following officers: President, Col. L. S. Trowbridge of Detroit; secretary, Capt. J. H. Eddy; and the following: Hon. J. H. Eddy, Hon. W. W. Dickinson of Grand Rapids. Vice-presidents were elected as follows: At Large, Capt. P. N. Cook of Corunna; Company A, Thomas Mills; Company B, Samuel W. McKinley; Company C, W. H. Dunc; Company E, Capt. W. H. Dunc; Company G, Chris. Price; Company G. A., A. G. Jarock; Company H, W. A. Richardson; Company I, Jesse Stone; Company K, H. M. Cole; Company L, H. Hallett; Company M, J. H. Eddy.

The meeting then adjourned to the Bridge Street house, where Landford Elks had prepared a grand banquet. The veterans were seated at tables, the chairs were arranged in a circle and Major C. W. Watkins, adjutant of the regiment, making the removal of the veterans. Hon. W. W. Dickinson read a paper on "Strawberry Michigan Cavalry" was responded to by L. S. Trowbridge, which was followed by a song by the veterans. The program was followed by John Camp and Patrick Kearney on the "Army Life."

KILLED BY CARELESSNESS. Terrible Explosion of Powder in a Denver Store.

DEVELOPING: A terrible explosion occurred at the entrance of the New Ivanhoe Buck tunnel, near Leadville, this morning. One of the workmen who was entering the tunnel with a box of dynamite removed it carelessly and accidentally knocked against the wall. It exploded, killing Wm. THEY STAMPEDED POLITICS. Lively and Interesting Meeting of the Farmers' Club.

Conflicting Views on the Matter of "Agricultural Depression"—Some Radical Ideas Expressed by D. P. Clay.

The Farmers' club met in the supervisors' room in the city hall yesterday afternoon, with D. A. Linderman in the chair, and 16 venerable looking members present. The meeting was opened by S. S. Bailey reading a paper on the subject chosen at the last meeting: "What is the cause of the present agricultural depression, and is there any remedy that lies within reach of the farmer?"

Mr. Bailey scored E. L. Briggs heavily for recent letters and political utterances which had been published in the Farmers' press. He said: "If Mr. Briggs would state the place where poverty exists, as it is his duty to do so, the members present no doubt would do all in their power to relieve their brethren."

Continuing he said, farmers today are receiving more for their produce than they have at any time in the past ten years. The present government should be thanked for the farmers throughout the country, for establishing an office of secretary of agriculture with that practical farmer, Jerry Busk, at the head.

Mr. Briggs was considerably disturbed by the remarks of Mr. Bailey, and when he arose there was a sharp exchange of views. He prefaced his remarks by stating that Mr. Bailey should have inquired at the head of his paper why the standard of "agriculture" has proceeded to dissect the McKinley bill, showing very conclusively that the bill was for the purpose of making the rich richer and the poor poorer.

Chairman D. P. Clay, who was in the chair, thought the subject should be altered and he would suggest that the resolution be changed to "What is the cause of the present depression?"

Mr. Briggs then jumped up and said: "The cause of the present depression is the high price of produce as due to the small crops of this year."

He said: "The cause of the present depression is the high price of produce as due to the small crops of this year."

REPUBLICAN FUSIONS.

A few years ago, when Greenbackism figured in our state politics and the followers of that cause united with the Democrats against the Republicans.

It was an office seeking affair entirely, in the opinion of the Republican leaders, and in fact they said, fusion was not honest in any light.

But now we see the Republicans of South Carolina fusing with the regular old Bourbon Democrats, having for the candidate for governor a pronounced opponent of negro suffrage.

It is made against the Farmers' Alliance Democrats, who have captured the Democratic organization and propose to reform it.

It will be remembered, too, that this regular Democratic organization is the one against which the Republicans have alleged all sorts of outrages and dishonesty at elections.

The Telegram-Herald yesterday morning recognizes the apparent inconsistency of this alliance according to clear-gaited Republicans.

It is a philosophy about a fusion in political movements, that unites two weaker elements the stronger, that maintains it as sensible and justifiable in all instances.

Such unions hold out the hope of success and bring out the voters who without hope of success would stay at home or vote with the weaker side.

Such unions hold out the hope of success and bring out the voters who without hope of success would stay at home or vote with the weaker side.

It is a philosophy about a fusion in political movements, that unites two weaker elements the stronger, that maintains it as sensible and justifiable in all instances.

Such unions hold out the hope of success and bring out the voters who without hope of success would stay at home or vote with the weaker side.

THE DAUGHTER OF JEFF.

The southern people are taking up Winnie Davis for a successor to her father.

It was hoped in the north that when the head of rebellion died the south would have no more occasion to revive the hateful memories of treason.

Especially unfortunate for itself, by slapping over Jeff Davis and calling out from him praise of defense of a crushed rebellion that was utterly devoid of merit.

Now Davis' daughter on such occasions is paraded, and while she cannot really be faulted, her father could say, there is always some veteran of the lost cause to re-echo the irritating wickedness of Jeff Davis.

The south had better drop the Davises and the mean cause they championed, conducted and lost. The south really confesses that the cause is hopelessly lost, and that its loss is a blessing to the whole nation, therefore its loss.

PUBLIC OPINION.

I have heard a number of complaints from different parts of the city, to the effect that what should be termed "organized bands of young marauders" are preying upon the public.

"I have heard a number of complaints from different parts of the city, to the effect that what should be termed "organized bands of young marauders" are preying upon the public.

This subject was agitated in my mind by a friend who lives in the southern part of the city told me yesterday. He said: "There is a gang of young toughs in our neighborhood, and their actions are a disgrace to their parents. They are up to all kinds of mischief and are constantly growing worse. Within a week they have broken the glass in the door of a corner grocery store and have broken the boys out of the home fire. They drift away to another part of the country in search of a new territory to prey upon, and in many ways to continue a life of miserable shame which, probably never have been known had they been given proper training and training in the home circle."

COWS AND CREAMERIES.

PROFESSOR HENRY FINDS A MINE OF RICHES IN CORNSTALKS.

The difference in value between fodder stalks when fed alone and when mixed with the feed cutter is worth an acre of cornstalks is worth.

The experiments recorded below in regard to the relative value of cheap fodder stalks and the value of the feed made by Professor Henry at the Wisconsin agricultural experiment station.

"The following table is deducted from actual results in the stable. Be it understood that the cornstalks had the ears broken off and the stalks cut into one-foot lengths."

"Food required for 100 pounds of milk when feeding cornstalks—186 pounds of cornstalks, 35 pounds of cornmeal and 32 pounds of wheat bran."

"Food required for 100 pounds of milk when feeding clover hay—40 pounds of clover hay, 89 pounds of cornmeal and 37 pounds of wheat bran."

"How we find that 186 pounds of cornstalks fed long as a certain amount of amount of grain produced 100 pounds of milk, while the same cows under the same conditions 40 pounds of mixed hay produced 100 pounds of milk, probably the same amount of grain, produced 100 pounds of milk. This trials are not only a great advantage, but also a saving of the value of mixed hay. In these trials, however, we found 34 percent of the weight of our fodder is made up of the weight of the stalks saved there."

"Had we fed out instead of long fodder, then 428 pounds instead of 186 pounds of cornstalks would have produced equal 100 pounds of uncut cornstalks, or 55 pounds of mixed hay equal 100 pounds of uncut cornstalks. An acre of cornstalks, when mixed with wheat, 1,480 pounds of mixed hay, and when reduced to fineness by the feed cutter 1,300 pounds of mixed hay. This gives us a saving of $5.50 in the first case and $5.50 in the second."

Demand for Sweet Butter. Allusion has frequently been made in the past concerning the shortage of butter which would probably be experienced in the winter months of the coming year.

To Test Dairy Salt. The following method of testing salt used for dairy purposes is laid down by salt manufacturers. It is a simple test, and can be made by any one.
