SUNDAY, DECEMBER 23, 1890.

THE FAIR AND MONEY: The world greatly needs another discovery of gold like that of California and Australia.

Perhaps such a discovery is near at hand in the mountains of Africa.

As to our own country we can get along without any more of the precious metal than we produce.

With money plentiful, we can coin all the gold and silver produced by ourselves and supplement these with coin certificates and treasury notes to make a sufficient amount of money to boom all our industries.

The great Columbian exposition is but a little over two years away and we must see to it that we are not then in the midst of a panic or even close times.

With money plentiful, business lives that exposition in the one matter of its attendance of people would become the wonder of the world, if in no other respect.

But the character and quantity of American exhibits will compare favorably with the magnitude of the attendance if the country is prosperous.

There is no duty so important and pressing upon congress now as the one to provide means for the happiness and prosperity of the people to come through the exposition year.

It is high time to drop party schemes, and in fact all pet notions, to take up now for full examination the best ideas of statesmen on the money question that has met settled so as to at once put the country on a prosperous basis.

There is more party advantage in this for the Republicans than all the force which they can write for years.

Their labor in vain on party measures of the kind is not prosperous in the summer of 1892. More money will make it prosperous.

THE decision of the Supreme court in the cumulative voting law case we are quite sure is no disappointment to patriots and Republicans.

It was no honorable legislation; it was trickery of the meanest kind. No party can ever gain any advantage by resorting to such means.

The majority must rule, and any device to obstruct the majority in the form of law is just as distasteful as legislation as a false coin or a stuffed ballot box.

Let us have honest elections under just laws and then let the voice of the majority prevail. If this is not done in Mississippi or Connecticut, it is no reason it should not be done in Michigan.

THERE is talk of a break in the Harrison cabined, and the situation justifies the name. Harrison is a man of the past. Blaine has a proud record against anything of the kind. Harrison does not agree with Wisdom on his pet idea for financial relief. Harrison is a McKinley man. Blaine is not; neither is Blaine an admirer of Reed's mode of getting a quorum; Harrison is Brown's appointment to the bench rather loath as if Harrison did not dare to break into his cabinet for a Supreme court Justice, as it is known he desired to do, for fear the whole thing would go to pieces.

JUDG CHAMBERLAIN did not dissent from Judges Morse and Long on the constitutionality of the railroad fare law. He is with those two sound Judges and gallant heroes, and they are with the people. If we were in Judge McInerney's place we would not permit the Republican state convention under the circumstances to lead us up to a mountain top to point out to us a wide and alluring prospect. It would not to which it can give no title this spring.

THE Democrats should take warning from the Republican failure and discomfiture not to attempt one single act of legislation this winter having no higher purpose than party advantage. Every act should have for its sole object the common welfare, and that the people recognize the claims for power of that party that proves itself their best friend and servant.

THE Supreme court of the state of Michigan is in touch with the people. Its decisions truly can be said to be popular will on issues that involve the people to the State. This is giving force to the supreme law of the State which is the will of the people fairly, fully and persistently expressed.

JUDG BROWN got the best Christmas gift the president had in his possession. It was more than gold or precious stones.

Pronounced Hopeless, Yet Saved.

From a letter written by Mrs. A. E. Hurd of Groton, S. D. It is quoted: "Was taken with a bad cold which settled on my lungs, cough set in and finally terminated in consumption. Four doctors came up, saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Saviour, the things of every day life and discuss theology with my own consciences.

MONOMONIM is no other forbidden in this country than any other form of religion. It is polygamy that is intolerable.

It is reported that a man has purchased 3,000,000 acres of land in Mexico for a colony. It is for polygamists and nothing more but there are enough of those in this country alone to more than settle 30,000,000 acres.

The doctors will have to begin their studies anew. Materia Medica won't cut so much of a figure in the future as bacteriology. Koch is howing out a new path for physicians and the victims of consumption, cancer and diphtheria can take hope, but lymph and not drugs is to do the work.

WHEN hypnotism comes into general and normal use human nature will show itself manner than ever it was before by whisky. It will be more dangerous than to live with men than with snakes. We guess hypnotism had better be hypnotized on its first appearance.

ATTORNEY GENERAL MILLER got left. His stock was up, but the president overlooked his gaining and when the office-seeker wants a plum at Christmas time he puts up his stocking, at other times he trusts to lightning rod. Fences are only used to keep what he has.

The railroads that earn $3,000 a mile will have to come down in their fares to 2 cents a mile. We have a strong belief that this will prove a blessing in disguise for the railroads as well as the people. The lowest rates will attract the travel and increase it.

Ed. and Elizabeth Johnson were arraigned on a warrant charging grand larceny. They pleaded and when the officer-seeker wants a plum at Christmas time he puts up his stocking, at other times he trusts to lightning rod. Fences are only used to keep what he has.

The case of the people against John Walters, charging him with neglecting his wife, was adjourned until January 7.

The saloon case of Ed. Boyland and Carl Baur were adjourned until January 7, and the saloon case against John O'Donnell was continued until January 7.

The people case against John E. Feldner was nolle prosequi and Mr. Feldner was discharged. He was immediately arrested on another warrant charging embezzlement, and was held in $300 bail for examination, which was set for January 7.

Charles and Henry Buskirk, charged with assault and battery, were discharged by the court.

We have sold nearly everything designed especially for the Christmas trade. What remains will be sold at greatly reduced prices, as we do not intend to offer any of the same lot next season. We shall endeavor to continue the lively interest that has pervaded every department by offering extraordinary inducements in all lines of goods.

BURIED IN A WELL.
The Experience of Charles Knautz. His remarkable escape from a well.

Being buried in a well, with all hopes of escape apparently cut off, is the condition Charles Knautz found himself on Wednesday forenoon last. He has two recall of the peculiar incident. He was in a well on the corner of Twain avenue and Houseman street, where he was digging a well. The helpers refused to dig into the well to the brick curbing and so Mr. Knautz attempted the work himself. He was down about 10 feet and had laid one foot of the stone covering he noticed the brick curbing and sand giving away. Reaching for a rope which had been previously let down into the well, he commenced to climb. He was not fast enough to escape the fast falling debris, which jammed round him clear up to his head. By hanging to the rope and using his left hand he managed to get a space open large enough to enable him to crawl up. He was then rescued by the men on the surface.

Mr. Knautz was badly bruised about the hands. He was not injured about the body as usual and with the exception of a soreness in his hand.

The Clock Stopped When He Died.
The sentimental and superstitious who believe in the connection of coincidences will find an interesting subject for their attention in the recent death of a young man in Buena Vista. For many years he has been a skillful German watchmaker, named Frank Kehrer, to attend to the town clock, which is in the steeple of the court house. During the past few months the health of Mr. Kehrer has been poor, and the clock, deprived of his careful attention, has been in a state of disrepair. Monday morning the timepiece struck 5, and a few moments later it stopped. Mr. Kehrer was called to the clock and found it in a state of disrepair. He was unable to get it going and he died at 5:30 that morning. The hands of the clock stopped at the time of his death. The clock was repaired and is now running again.

His Hat Dollars Was Glass.
A striking illustration of the quantity of bogus coins now in circulation in this city was given in a downtown store recently. A customer brought in a small package tendered a fifty cent piece in payment. The clerk pushed it back and the customer said it was a real one. The clerk said it was a fake and the customer said it was a real one. The clerk said it was a fake and the customer said it was a real one. The clerk said it was a fake and the customer said it was a real one.

Willed $10,000 to a Politician.
A respectable looking man, who said he was a contractor, came to the office of the administrator of the estate of Mr. Hughes, a millionaire, who recently died, and called at Green's hotel, Eighth and Chestnut streets, and said that he had come to hunt up a bartender who worked on Mr. Hughes' last summer. Mr. Hughes had given him $10,000. Mr. Hughes on dying did not know the bartender's name, but gave a full description of his appearance.

Feared Being Buried Alive.
Abner L. Dunn, a veteran of the civil war, who died in Burlington, Ia., the other day. He died several days ago at the age of 56, but in accordance with the request he had made the interment was deferred as long as possible. This was the second time Dunn had died, all appearances. Several years ago, after a long illness, he died and was buried in a casket. Shortly before the coffin was lowered into the grave Dunn showed signs of life and after a few days he was well and strong. The story of his experience was thrilling. He claimed that he was conscious of what was going on about him; understood the conversation; could even see the faces of his family as they bent over him; but could not speak or move. He felt that he had a dread of being buried alive; and it was for this reason that he made the request for delay.—Philadelphia Ledger.
