

FREED FOR EVER THE SENATE PASSES THE BILL IN ITS SIMPLEST FORM.

Senator Ingalls Catches the Popular Breeze and Makes a Great Speech—Sixteen Republican Voice With the People.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Senator Ingalls is always a drawing card when he makes an address in the senate and today proved no exception to the rule. The senate met at 10 o'clock, and five minutes later, when Mr. Ingalls rose, the galleries had begun to fill. In half an hour they were crowded and they remained so during the day. Nearly every senator was present in his seat, and many members of the house were seen on the floor.

Mr. Ingalls said that there were two popular evils which threatened the safety of the republic. The first was ignorance, debased, degraded, spurious suffrage; the second was the corrupt, selfish, and inefficient character of the present government.

Mr. Ingalls referred to the presence of Washington in money matters, and the fact that the government was at the present time, there were many scores of men and of corporations in this country who had accumulated the richest city of the United States at the end of the century.

The people, he said, had suddenly awakened to a conception of the value of the great bulk of the property of the country which was passing into the hands of a few men.

At the conclusion of Mr. Ingalls' speech Senator Jones of Nevada, spoke in advocacy of the amendment.

Mr. Ingalls spoke for two hours. When he took his seat he was heartily applauded by the galleries.

Senator Adams, Aldrich and Stewart spoke on the motion. Senator Sherman said he should vote for the amendment.

FOR THAT AND ALSO TO STRIKE OUT ALL REMAINING SECTIONS OF THE BILL.

Mr. Hoar then moved to take up the motion to strike out the remainder of the bill.

On motion of Mr. McComas the house adjourned until tomorrow.

DEMPSY KNOCKED OUT MANY A SPORT IS "DEAD BROKE" THIS MORNING.

The Australian Beats the Nonpareil in Thirteen Rounds—The Middleweight Championship Settled for Ever in Dempsey's Favor.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 14.—The battle for the middleweight championship between Jack Dempsey and Bob Fitzsimmons took place in the Olympic club today and resulted in Dempsey being knocked out in the 13th round.

The man appeared in the ring at 9:05, both in the condition. Fitzsimmons weighed 150 and Dempsey 147 pounds.

From the start everything went "Fitz's" way. He got the first knockdown, first and only blood, and won with ease.

Long before 6 o'clock crowds began to gather, and when the doors opened they crowded into the building.

Second Round—"Fitz" came up cautiously, and when he began to box Dempsey landed on his shoulder, neck and ribs.

Fourth Round—"Dempsey" rushed, but he was not in the mood to fight back to his corner, and pounded his ribs, Dempsey clinching. Dempsey then got up on the ear and eye, and was FROG when the round ended.

In the eighth Dempsey came up groggy and bleeding, fought savagely, but he was not in the mood to fight back to his corner, and pounded his ribs, Dempsey clinching.

The eleventh round was a repetition of the eighth round. Dempsey went down after the eighth round, but forbore to knock him out.

In the thirteenth Dempsey staggered and was unable to recover. "Fitz" was carried out on the shoulders of his friends.

FIRES IN NEW YORK THREE EXPENSIVE BURNES EARLY YESTERDAY MORNING.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—At 1:10 this morning fire broke out in the front yard of a large frame ten-story building on North river, and it burned so fiercely that by daylight, in spite of the best work of a large force of firemen, it was completely destroyed, only the walls being left standing.

By another coincidence another big fire broke out shortly after the first one was discovered in Morgan & Connelly's grocery and warehouse, 193 and 194 West street, within sight of the first blaze.

At 3 o'clock, while the firemen were battling with the flames at the elevator, another big blaze broke out in the stores of Campbell, Nichols & George.

Prior to the death of Henry Kuppenheimer, which occurred January 3 last, a will was executed by him at 217 South Division street with James S. Stewart, known to some as James S. O'Brien, Kuppenheimer, during his lifetime, took out an insurance policy of $500 in the Metropolitan Life Insurance company.

The will was not rushed through under any circumstances, but was made this afternoon, although fourteen senators favored such a suspension. It will be passed by the senate and referred to the committee on federal relations.

Neither was the senate in haste to take from the table a resolution which was introduced by Senator Fridlander's protest. The resolution is still on the table, as eighteen senators voted for its suspension.

Senator Wheeler gave notice of a bill providing for the creation of the thirteen judicial circuits and the holding of their courts.

THE PEOPLES COLUMN.

Lesson from Emma Abbott.
EDMOND MORRIS PIERCE—In reading your paper the other morning I saw the words of Emma Abbott—"My next song will be sung in heaven," and it brings ideas that I have not seen in "The Peoples Column."

Did Miss Abbott die happier in that belief than it was any consolation to her friends? The existence or non-existence of a God is a difficult thing to prove with words, but there is another question—do we need a God?

I take a logical fact that owing to the peculiar construction of our brain, and the lack of the requisite quality of some parts of it that a large majority of us are unable to think, i. e. to carry out in life of thought on an subject brought before us and hear, but there are things which we know either by instinct or experience. We know that we live and must work for a living.

And we enjoy life, in sickness we dread death, and at all times it is a struggle for existence, and as it were almost give up in despair, and if it were not for the belief in a future life more cheerful and happier where "health is as catching as disease" is here, and where justice prevails and costs nothing, and that we will there enjoy the result of our labor done here, we would put out our hands and lay hold of the things which our labor has created and which lie in the hands of those that have done our thinking for us by the "job lot."

Some of us have tried to think and walked and now fill the insane asylums, whilst others say "there is no God, and this life is all there is to life and it will have the best of it while it lasts." That is the position of the "job lot" and the "job lot" is the only one that is safe for their health.

Now, although that there is no God, and that we must work for a living, and that we must enjoy life, and that we must dread death, and that we must struggle for existence, and that we must almost give up in despair, and that if it were not for the belief in a future life more cheerful and happier where "health is as catching as disease" is here, and where justice prevails and costs nothing, and that we will there enjoy the result of our labor done here, we would put out our hands and lay hold of the things which our labor has created and which lie in the hands of those that have done our thinking for us by the "job lot."

Now, although that there is no God, and that we must work for a living, and that we must enjoy life, and that we must dread death, and that we must struggle for existence, and that we must almost give up in despair, and that if it were not for the belief in a future life more cheerful and happier where "health is as catching as disease" is here, and where justice prevails and costs nothing, and that we will there enjoy the result of our labor done here, we would put out our hands and lay hold of the things which our labor has created and which lie in the hands of those that have done our thinking for us by the "job lot."

And what does he do and such as to give us in exchange for the religion he desires? It is such as he that makes it possible for anarchy and socialism to raise their "horrid fronts" in our midst.

AT FIVE O'CLOCK.
And so the day is over.
And I sit here for a cup of tea,
I feel like the victor over
Who returns successfully
I shopped to such satisfaction:
My new hat is so neat;
My gown will spread distraction
Among the girls in town.

See it dash in the clouds of gray,
And dart into the drifts of light.
