Some Experiments in Hypnotism. As a result of the revival interest hypnotism caused by the Eyrand-Do pard trial in Paris some experiments hypnotism were made at the IIO Kaiserhoff, Berlin, Monday, when so By the Poetleal Sector, sy the Catieton Chaulaväg, a Circle. The Carieton C. L. S. O. met at the res-idence of Mrs. L. Sprague on East Leonard street last Monday evening and, nt the time pleasantly and Dr. Garlie snopra, who hav deal in profilably. There was quite a full st-covariation: Dipost fullar has been commenced at the status of the status of the status of the quotations from Millow. The minutes and theory Krailke was condicatable better read by Robert Millow and ware as folrubject in a hypaotic condition showed that it is not known possible to suggest to a hypaotized person to perform acts by a solutable contrary to that person's matural inclinations. The sub-ject in question was a sportraman, who was successfully made to believe that he may be a sub-table that a sub-ming sub-table that homing sub-ity and sub-ity and sub-ity and sub-table that is a sub-table to the sub-start.-Pall Mall Budget.

The wintry sky was overcast, A cold, raw wind was blowing. By turns 'twas raining thick and fast - And then again 'twas snowing, When in a brother's boarding house

Then in a brother's boarding hou Some bold Chautauquans met, Those real for learning's noble c Defied the cold and wet That wild, dark night.

That wild, dark hight. The first to come was Ben F. Kdge, A good, truu-hearted fellow, Who braved the storm: king's wildest rape, Armed with a good-unbrella. Twice past the buot that singht be marched and wandered all around it; Bud stall undoanced on he searched Until at last he found it. Big doance that night.

By chance that night. Next came the Regulars, bold and true, To doar Chautaugan loyal. The friends within, though rather few, Gave them a welcome royal: Some matual compliments went round, Then all fell guessing whether And come that night.

And come that night. And then began a general chat About the streets so muddy; How to remember this or that And how and when to study; Of piercing cars and pulling teeth; The products of the tropics; The wealth that lies the earth beneath, And other kindred tooles.

They talked that night

They taked that hight To wind how much block was split To win for Dritais freedom; How Charlie Stuart must have felt When Cromwell's Ironsides treed him; Jow searching patiently and long are we find the cause of truth grow stong And triumphed through the ages And triumphen is the thickest stife

As by Goa's might. As by Goa's might be the thickest strife Has kept his mane unspot ed And wrought with eask a sabiline through life The task to him allotted: Of Ireland's ease, her wrongs and griefs, Her feußs and factions many, The the same string of the same string At Doublin and Kultenny Hy day and night,

By day and night. Then Mrs. Mo-— some applies passed, With pleasant word and look, On which the circle broke its fast And willingly partook. Each heart's second fail of hope and trust, Each face was bright and cheery, Although with many a fitted gots The we build that hight.

 Outside that hight.
 With social mirth and salities keen Their eyres would fissh and sparkle And neyre was there known, i ween, A more delightful of ele.
 And when at fast they rose to go They ful they d had a blewing For coming through the storm-but, Hen's rubbers turned up missing bbers turned up miss Somehow that night.

Somehow that night. Then everyone came out to look And wonder who had got them. In every dark and shady nook And cubby-hole they sought them; But, as we all know well enough, All seekers are not finders, So rubbarless he started of With our good friends, the Reynder For home that night.

For home that night. It seems that while oùr little group Within their subjects is laked of, Some thief had come upon the sloog And with the rubbers walked off. Now just a word before I stop: It doesn't always rain there, And when the weather's nice I hope You'll try and meet again there Some other night.
