LAND LOANS.
 The Marquette Mining Journal quotes a paragraph from the MORNING PRESS in which it is maintained that the elections decided by the farmers last year turned on the demand for free silver coinage and not upon the McKelvey bill and that the rejection of that demand from the people by this congress was in defiance to Will street and in defiance of the popular will, and in reply the Mining Journal says:
 "Well, if the farmers are advocating free coinage of silver, are they not also demanding that the government shall loan them money on their farms and 'non-perishable' farm products at about half the rate of interest that the national bank is allowed to pay on its loans? If their wish is to be law in one thing, why not in another? Conceding everything that the Press claims as to what the farmers want, it is still to be shown that they are the best judges of what the country needs in the way of financial legislation, or that, as a class, they are entitled to special consideration and favor at the hands of those who make and administer our laws."
 The farmers as a class have no special claims to favor from the government over other classes of citizens.
 The farmers as a class are not by any means united in their demand for popular money. That proposition is the subject of the country for discussion. It should be acceptable to the country it will be approved by all classes of voters and land owners, whether in city or country will be able to make loans on equal terms.

So far the farmers are not united for a land loan and it is possible that idea will not be specifically declared for by the Alliance party in 1932. It may be laid aside, or so open a question of the feasibility of radical action to be taken up and adopted if found necessary and wise after further and careful consideration.
 But what great heresy is there in this proposed land loan that it should be singled out in this program for ridicule by the farmers ideas of finance? Has not the government for 20 years given away money to the banks for loans to the people at high rates of interest, giving as security to the treasury government bonds? What better security is bonds than lands? Are not promises to pay secured by mortgage on land better than promises to pay without mortgages? The land loan would be secured by mortgage, the national banks' loans are secured by a promise to pay.
 The proposed land loan carries with it possibilities of favoritism and corruption for party purposes and for that reason is more objectionable than any other, but how is it possible for the treasury department to prostitute its powers more recklessly in making loans on land than did Sherman as secretary of the treasury in making loans as deposits with favorite national banks, especially one in New York in which he was not a stockholder? We have arrived at a deplorable condition of things in this nation. There must be a change from the plutocratic, money-hungry tendencies that date from the close of the war. The outrages on labor for the aggrandizement of capital perpetrated in the past 20 years must be corrected, the interests of which was the least and the trickery demoralization of silver at the suggestion of the money kings of Europe and America. The return to government of the people from a rule of money must be made without a great disturbance of the honest and constructive policy the fathers inaugurated and under which we were a happy and prosperous people for 70 years, but if some more drastic measures are necessary to be adopted bravely and we trust in the utmost purity of enlightened and lofty patriotism.

BONDS AND TREASURY NOTES.
 Mr. Sherman is the recognized champion of the interest of the money power in the senate. He recognizes the fact that the money power is necessary to the shape of the government. He is willing to get more money by issuing $300,000,000 in bonds, running a long time, drawing interest upon which would be a farther injury to the amount.
 This would be perfectly proper and all right in the mind of Sherman and his Wall street friends, but when some friend of the people rises and proposes the issue of Sherman's scheme that the government issue $300,000,000 in legal tender treasury notes, Mr. Sherman is shocked at the folly and dishonour of such a measure as if the promise to pay of this government in the shape of a treasury note are not as good as its promise to pay in the shape of a bond. The difference to the bankers is not so much the interest in gold as it is the privilege of having the bonds in their hands to issue money and the abandonment of that right by the government. There is more importance to the money power in having the control of the money loans than in holding the interest bearing bonds of the government.

 The desire of the money power to issue the money should indicate to the people the importance of keeping that power in the hands of the government. If the treasury notes are acceptable to the people it is far better and just as honest to issue them as to issue bonds as preferred by Mr. Sherman.

MORE PAID OFFICERS.
 The act for the relief of the Superior court of the United States as amended, which cut judges, 9 marshals, 9 clerks, 8 officers and 18 to 27 bailiffs. This is a total of from 83 to 72 more officers created for the taxpayers to support, requiring salaries and fees not less than a total of $100,000 a year.
 One intermediate court instead of one would have fully met the reform needed and at less than a third of the expense. This act that creates this big batch of additional officials is an outrage on the people by unscrupulous partisans who have taken this course to get them seated on the public through a presidential opponent after having been soundly defeated at the polls. Just notice the number of these gentlemen who step down out of congress to deny, never to return, who voted for this bill, who will get these fat places.

LORD NELSON. the greatest naval hero of England in all her history, like Mr. Parrell, had a mistress. Mr. Gladstone has been reminded of this affair of Lord Nelson's by the recent revelation of Parrell and his O'Shea, and so Mr. Gladstone has turned his studious mind to the facts in Nelson's case and has discovered much new and interesting matter concerning Lord Nelson, who was sweet on Nelson. Perhaps Mr. Gladstone intends to run a parallel with Nelson and Parrell for the latter's further discomfiture and he may further intend to point a moral to the public and draw money from Parrell. It is at least a singular subject for Mr. Gladstone's attention unless it has been suggested by Parrell's career and is intended for some practical political effect.

ACT IN NEBRASKA. they do up the railroad pass business in the legislature just right. They forbid it by law and determine that the passes by the members be a crime and then publicly tear up their passes in open session. It is an example we should like to see emulated in Michigan, but there is no hope of such an exhibition of honesty at Lansing. The legislature is not composed of the Nebraska strips of reformers.

THE STATEMENT OF AN INCREASE IN THE public debt of nearly $3,000,000 in the past month has quite an old time flavor, but it is a very distasteful thing to the taxpayer.
STANFORD'S LITTLE BOOM.
 PUBLISHING HIS PRESIDENTIAL SCHEME IN SPITE OF ADVERSE CIRCUMSTANCES.
 WASHINGTON, March 3.—Senator Stanford has discovered that under the rule of the adverse report of the finance committee on his land loan scheme knocks the bill off the calendar. This is one way in which legislation by committee works. His proposition has lost its standing. When the precedent was set by Mr. Stanford he applied to his senatorial friends to tell him how to get the bill back on the calendar. Mr. Vance of North Carolina who recently had a terrific struggle trying to see the bill through the senate, told Mr. Stanford the idea before he was re-elected, was one of those who Stanford opposed for suggestions.
 "I don't know, Stanford, how you can get that bill back on the calendar," said Vance; "but I should say it would take a crane and derrick to put it back there."

HERE'S YOUR CHANCE.
Meats Go Down With The River.
 The citizens are just now commencing on the rise in the river, but the greatest fall of prices in meats at the Western Beef company is worthy of more than a passing notice. Mr. Brown announced that the beef branded hams will be marked at 25c, and the California hams at 20c, and the breakfast hams at 15c. These meats just as low as ever. All these goods are prime and you will save money by buying them.

A Little Girl's Experience In A Light House.
 Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Prescott are keepers of the Government Lighthouse at Sand Beach, Mich., and are blessed with a daughter, a year old. Last April she was taken down with measles, followed by a severe attack of diphtheria and a fever. Doctors at home and at Detroit treated her, but in vain, she grew worse rapidly, until she was a mere "bundle of bones." Then the tried Dr. King's New Discovery and after the use of two and a half bottles was completely cured. They say Dr. King's New Discovery is worth its weight in gold, yet you may get a trial bottle free at H. F. Smith's drug store.
 ALL at the glass works, 60 Pearl Street.

CITY AND SUBURBS

Miss Mae Anderson, of 210 Scripps street, fell with the mumps.

The Federal court grand jury yesterday returned four true indictments.

Call today in Judge Aldrich's court to see what fact.

The regular meeting of the board of education will be held next Saturday evening.

The funeral of Patrick Maloney occurred at 10 o'clock this morning from St. Anthony church.

The call in Judge Grove's court today is issues of fact, 56 and 70. Chancery case 33 is also on call.

Warbling B. Brown's orchestra will play their seventh season ball at Germania hall this evening.

Francis Royland held his oath of office yesterday with the county clerk at deputy sheriff of Kent county.

Alex Douglas discharged the most of $200, instead of $100, as stated yesterday, to William Glegg.

Miss Selma Brouha, of 204 Ottawa street, returned from a visit to the city.

Sheriff McQueen deposited Herbert Harris in the Iowa reformatory yesterday.

A delegation of reporters, one from each city paper of the city, were invited to visit the poor house in company with the building committee.

John Adams yesterday returned a decree of divorce to the complainant in the case of Horace W. Davis vs. Julia Davis.

Confession of proof and a decree of divorce for the complainant in the case of John P. Feltus vs. Mary Feltus was ordered yesterday by Judge Grove.

The work of the jury for the December term of the Superior court was completed yesterday by the trial of the case with the thanks of Judge Kurland.

Alexander Weratke yesterday bought the interest in the property of the Parnell house. The ownership of the house is still retained by Patrick Weratke.

The entire file in the famous Gillit divorce case is in the hands of Judge Aldrich to file the necessary decrees.

The files were "borrowed" before they were opened.

The members of the High school senior class have elected Susan E. White, president; Miss Mary Heffernan, vice president; Miss Mary West, secretary; Richard D. Hoy, treasurer; and Miss Julia Pyle, orderly at arms.

John Fisher, who was arrested yesterday for stealing a horse from Ben Bowen of Gales, the alleged thief, was lodged in jail to await an examination before Justice Westfall, March 11.

The first oil painting by the artist's celebrated studio, "Fairway Medium," is on exhibition in the display window of York's department store.

The painting is by Frank Selzer, is wonderfully true to life and highly prized by Mr. Kurland.

THE RANDALLS DISCHARGED. Other Cases Heard in Police Court. Yester day Judge Randall heard the following cases:

Daniel Heffernan paid $1 fine and $3 costs in Police court yesterday as the result of being drunk. Michael Heiland paid $35 costs and was released on suspended sentence.

John H. and Mrs. Randall, charged with being drunk, were discharged. Mrs. Randall was a horrid sight when she stood before the judge. Both of her eyes were blackened, her face was horribly bloated and her general appearance was anything but creditable.

THE FARMERS' SUBSTITUTE.

The Council's Proposition on the Question of Reciprocity with Great Britain. The shipping and reciprocity bill proposed by the council of the Farmers' Alliance and Industrial union as an embodiment of the administrative measures of a truly world in a few years after its passage completely relieve our foreign trade and put us upon a basis of solid and enduring prosperity.

The principle of the bill is honesty and simplicity. It does not propose to repeal the tariff, but to substitute a tariff for manufacturers or farmers. It fully adopts the principle of reciprocity proposed by Mr. Blair in his bill of 1894 for subsidies to steamship corporations; but it applies this theory in an open and straightforward way, as may be seen in the following resolution:

Resolved, That the legislative committee of the Farmers' Alliance and Industrial union be requested to prepare a bill for presentation to the present or the following congress to the effect that the following commodities, to wit: Wheat, barley, oats, rye, corn, clover, alfalfa, hay, cotton, wool, and other agricultural products, shall be allowed to enter and discharge their returning cargoes, port of call, and other duties, on the same basis as any other foreign products, at any port of the United States for which a measure properly carried out in detail will be submitted to the shipping lanes of the country, but result in carrying a foreign flag for the principal agricultural products of the United States.

In less than two years after the passage of such a law 95 per cent of the ocean carrying trade of the United States would be done in American ships, and there would hardly be a port in the civilized world without the American flag in its harbors.

Our surplus of agricultural products would move at once to their best and increasing quantities, thus giving immediate relief to this market from the pressure when crops are first brought in and securing the highest prices for farm products the year round, while at the same time establishing a healthy competition in manufacturing industries, which trusts and trust prices would be made impossible.

The Farmers' council has found the cause of our national depression and has proposed the true remedy. The passage of the proposed reciprocity and tariff bill will be a complete success where such measures as government control of crops would only mean worse demoralization.—St. Louis Republic.

Co-Operation, Not Unification. The action of the National Farmers Alliance in session at Omaha in restricting their membership to farmers, has been construed by some as a step toward unification of the agricultural political action. The proposition was to allow members of labor organizations to come into the subordinate alliance, but this met with the strongest opposition, and it was decided to keep the organization strictly for farmers.

Other agricultural workers would have much in common with them, especially in the objects to be attained in political action, but the history of similar movements shows that their great danger was in going too fast. The enthusiasm of great numbers was not always controlled by the wisdom of the leaders. Results can be obtained by co-operation and not unification with other forces. The great political victory in Kansas was won by a close measure of co-operation of the various organizations in the towns of those who were not eligible to regular membership.

The Farmers' Alliance is not a political party, but a political organization in the direction of a permanent convention with the political parties, the action of the convention was undoubtedly judicious. Paul Gilbo.

Farmers to Perfect Organization. The Farmers' Alliance in this state is assuming formidable proportions. Among the men attending the meeting, the State Agricultural society was connected with the Alliance are A. J. Phillips, of West Salem, grand lecturer; Charles C. H. Reuben, of Viroqua, grand orator; and Wm. Allen, of Beaver Dam, and Col. Reuben, of Viroqua, grand secretary. The Farmers' Alliance is also well represented, and a joint meeting was held this afternoon to talk over the matter.

While the Patrons of Industry are particularly well established in Walworth, Rock and Greene counties, the Alliance has been extending its work in other directions. The first lodges were instituted in May last, the progress has been rapid, and it is estimated that there are at present time, 6,192 members in the organization.—Milwaukee Telegram.

Among the Probs. The farmers will give the older organizations, particularly the Republican party, good cause for concern. It is to enter the presidential field, and they declare positively that the Alliance, comprising the vast majority of the farmers, shall take part as participants in political struggles as affiliating with Republicans or Democrats. They are manifestly in earnest, and are likely to become a thorn in the side of both parties.

It is not improbable that the farmers' organization will be able to gain enough electoral votes to throw the choice of a president into the house of representatives, where the voting would be by yeas and nays, and the Alliance would have a overwhelming advantage. At the same time the choice of a vice president would be left to the voters.—Chicago Times.
