FRIDAY, MARCH 29, 1921.

WAGES AND CHEAP MONEY. Working men are being asked to accept a 10 per cent cut in wages. This is a hard blow to the laborer, as it means a loss of income without any corresponding reduction in the cost of living.

THE PRICE OF LABOR. The price of labor is being driven down by the competition of foreign labor. This is a result of the tariff reduction and the influx of cheap labor from other countries.

THE LABOR MARKET. The labor market is becoming increasingly tight. This is due to the fact that many industries are expanding and need more workers. At the same time, the supply of labor is being reduced by the competition of foreign labor.

THE FUTURE OF LABOR. The future of labor is uncertain. It will depend on the actions of the government and the business community. If the government continues to reduce tariffs and the business community continues to expand, the labor market will become even tighter.

THE NEED FOR PROTECTION. The laborer needs protection from the competition of foreign labor. This can be achieved by the imposition of protective tariffs. This will help to maintain the price of labor and ensure the livelihood of the worker.

THE IMPORTANCE OF THE LABORER. The laborer is the backbone of the nation. Without the laborer, the country would be unable to produce the goods and services that it needs. Therefore, it is essential that the laborer be protected and his interests be safeguarded.

THE FUTURE OF THE NATION. The future of the nation depends on the actions of the laborer. If the laborer continues to be exploited and his interests are not protected, the nation will decline. However, if the laborer is protected and his interests are safeguarded, the nation will prosper.

THE LABORER'S RESPONSIBILITY. The laborer has a responsibility to the nation. He must work hard and honestly to produce the goods and services that the country needs. He must also be fair and just in his dealings with his employer.

INGALLS ON THE ALLIANCE.

Representative Ingalls has introduced a bill to amend the National Labor Relations Act. He claims that the current law is unfair to employers and that his bill will provide a more balanced approach to labor relations.

Ingalls' bill would require employers to provide a written statement of the reasons for any discharge of an employee. This would give the employee a chance to be heard and would help to prevent arbitrary dismissals.

The bill also would limit the power of labor unions to strike. Ingalls claims that the current law gives unions too much power and that his bill would restore the balance between labor and management.

Ingalls' bill has received some support from both labor and management. However, it has also received some criticism. Some labor leaders feel that the bill would weaken the power of unions.

It remains to be seen whether Ingalls' bill will pass. The House of Representatives is currently in session and will vote on the bill in the near future.

Ingalls' bill is one of many proposals that have been introduced in response to the current labor market conditions. It highlights the need for a balanced approach to labor relations.

The labor market is becoming increasingly tight and the laborer is being exploited. It is essential that the laborer be protected and his interests be safeguarded.

The laborer has a responsibility to the nation. He must work hard and honestly to produce the goods and services that the country needs. He must also be fair and just in his dealings with his employer.

The future of the nation depends on the actions of the laborer. If the laborer continues to be exploited and his interests are not protected, the nation will decline. However, if the laborer is protected and his interests are safeguarded, the nation will prosper.

The laborer's responsibility to the nation is a heavy one. It requires hard work, honesty, and a sense of duty. The laborer must be protected and his interests must be safeguarded.

THE RIDICULOUS MAN.

A recent picture of Jerry Simpson, the leader of the Farmers' Alliance, has been described as "ridiculous." This is a reflection of the public's growing skepticism about the Alliance's claims.

The Farmers' Alliance has raised the issue of currency reform. They claim that the current currency is inflated and that their plan will provide a more stable and sound currency.

The Alliance's plan for currency reform has been widely criticized. Many economists believe that the Alliance's plan is unrealistic and that it would lead to economic chaos.

The Alliance's claims of a "miraculous" cure for the currency problem have been exposed as false. This has led to a loss of confidence in the Alliance and its leaders.

The Alliance's failure to provide a realistic and sound plan for currency reform has led to its decline. The public has turned away from the Alliance and its promises.

A Pathetic Speech.

A recent speech by a member of the Farmers' Alliance was described as "pathetic." This was due to the speaker's lack of preparation and his reliance on emotional appeals.

The speaker's speech was full of promises and promises. He claimed that the Alliance would solve all the problems of the farmer and that he would provide a "miraculous" cure for the farmer's ills.

ASTHMA 35 YEARS

Rapidly Recovering

I had asthma 35 years very bad, sometimes had to go to bed, and the treatment I took from physicians were of no use until I employed Dr. S. Clay Todd, 16 North Division Street, Grand Rapids, Mich. I have been taking his medicine one month, and notwithstanding my recent trip of two weeks to the West, I feel better than I have for many years. I have had one bad spell since I began my treatment, and that was while I was in the West. I can breathe free, especially in the last few weeks. I am glad to say that I am now enjoying a life of health. I feel that my 35 years of affliction is leaving me.

I had been told that I was either to live or die; coughed all the time; had short breath and palpitation of the heart; raised a great deal, and my family physician could not help me.

Adventure of a Sanguine Male

Molle, an old pebbled mule, had a remarkable adventure in Cincinnati. He was driven to the Grand Lodge Chair Company and was ordered to be taken to the city. Suddenly the treacherous earth craved in and buried the animal under a mass of earth and debris. The mule was found after a search of several days. He was rescued and taken to the city. Beauty of Fish

A reporter of the Morning Press was attracted by some beautiful fish in the front of the commodious fish market of Bivens & Allen at 61 Pearl Street, yesterday afternoon, and seeing the genial Mr. Bivens inside, he ventured in and was struck by an assortment of fish. He was inspired to an admirer of the fish and tried. Among the fresh water fish are trout, salmon, and brook trout. There is a whitefish from Mackinac, Minnesota and Winnipeg white fish, croppies or rock bass, and suckers and live perch. The salt water fish are North river shad, fresh red California salmon, blue fish, and live haddock, flounders, fresh steak cod, fresh halibut, eels, fresh gulf shrimps and oysters. Now is the time to eat fresh fish as the spring weather approaches.

Among those who watched the Sherman funeral procession was a little boy who had been in the city for some time. He was young to see in the Grand Army veterans anything except a lot of tiresome old fellows who came here to see a long line of marching. He had seen a long line of marching before he had seen the glittering uniforms for which his soul longed.

Great Is the Bernhardt

Manufacturers, designers, modelists and dry goods merchants the world over owe Sara Bernhardt a debt of credit for the innovations which have revolutionized the changes she is constantly making in the fashion plate. It was Sara who revived the sequins and candelabras, and filled the stage with the most beautiful things. It was Sara who brought out the mousetrap glove, the Louis XIV coat and the hats of the aristocratic ball around the bottom of a white silk ball.
