

THE MEETING LAST NIGHT A GRAND SUCCESS.

A Large Audience Here Addressed by Edwin Hutchins, L. S. Norton, Col. S. F. Norton, Wm. C. Ketchum and Others.

The People's party meeting at Powers last night was a "bummer." The crowd was considerably larger than the one that assembled at Hartman's hall a week ago to listen to such orators as Governor Whinn, ex-Congressman Yapple and Senator McMillan, and the enthusiasm—well, that of last night was a cyclone compared with the Detroit Republican reprisals produced at Hartman's hall.

The meetings at Hartman's hall were noted chiefly for gloom and silence, but the meeting at Powers last night was full of the rattle and bang of the snappy, the ruck and roar of the factory and the crackle and blaze of the furnace. There is no mistaking those men—they are the people. The brown and blue of the city were there to testify by their presence that they have reached a crisis in the affairs of life where they must or die; that they have waited through twenty-five long years for a chance to make a popular uprising, have been fed on broken promises, and now they mean to improve the opportunity to right their wrongs. That they are in earnest may be shown by their applause at every point and the spot where the name of Hutchins and Moulton was sufficient to make the house ring with cheers.

Geo. Ballard of Holland presided, and with a few remarks introduced Edwin Hutchins, who was received with great applause. After the cheering subsided Mr. Hutchins said: "It gives me a great deal of pleasure to be here tonight. I am not vain enough to think that I am an ordinary farmer; I do not think they are quite so much of a curiosity as that yet. There are two classes of people in this country and one of them is the class that made their money during and since our war. The others have not made anything out of it, and that class of people needs a People's party to work for them in Congress.

The statement has been made that nine-tenths of the people of this country are without homes. If we go into the farming community we find the farms largely mortgaged. Even the savages have a place they can call home. They pay a tax on their land, and they would like to see the time come when all the people of this country could have a home where they can pass their lives in peace and enjoyment. My time is short, and I would like to say no further, but I will now yield the floor to my distinguished from Chicago, Col. S. F. Norton."

After Mr. Hutchins ceased speaking the band in attendance gave a pleasing and a choir sang a hymn. The speaker then said that it gave him great pleasure to introduce Colonel Norton of Chicago. He said the colonel did not come here to speak for so much a night, but he had to do so because of the cause of the people and their candidate for congress. The colonel then came forward and said: "I am glad to come before you tonight and want to say a few words for turning out in such large numbers.

"I know you are not here to be entertained but you come here to be instructed—the question that is not alone agitating your own minds and disquieting you, but one that is vital to all the people of the United States and one that is agitating all parts of the world. I can safely say that the people are left for a few years yet we will settle peaceably and quietly through the business."

"I do not come before you as a statesman as I do not think the People's party is any statesman, but I am here for you. We have had twenty or thirty years of statesmanship in the old parties. The Democratic and the Republican parties have the statesmen and we are perfectly willing they should keep them, and now I think that the time has come when the people must have a common sense, that the railroad trust of Michigan is going to do it [Cheers].

Hutchins has struck the keynote by saying that the people should have a home of their own. I think that if every man had a home for himself that there would be no stealing from each other and we would not need a police force as soon as a riot broke out every man would be satisfied with his own dear little plot of ground, and now I think that the time has come when the people must have a common sense, that the railroad trust of Michigan is going to do it [Cheers].

every poor man, we will give you a tract of land and build you a home, say to you about $100—$150, and you can have a house to stand in with. I remember the first house I lived in only cost half as much as it does now. I remember I ever had in my life. Give each man a tract of horses, mules and a cow, and let a mortgage on the whole thing with interest at the rate of 10 per cent. Under such a rule it would not be long before the men and women would have these things and get a home of their own. If the government will take mortgages on a man's property with interest at the rate of 10 per cent, it would be giving to a poor man who is in debt of $70 a year. You people that are and have been paying 10 per cent interest on the money that you are obliged to borrow, could save money and you would soon have that $70 a year would bring you a great many comforts that you haven't had.

When the usurer, whose toes you tread on, but the more you tread on them, and the harder you tread on them, the more they will grow. In twenty-five years the government has loaned to national banks $1,000,000,000, and has charged but 1 per cent. But I do not know where the money has gone. My friends among the bankers and I have a good deal of respect for them; they know where they have and say, "No man puts a saddle on himself and asks another man to ride and he don't do it. I don't know where the money has gone, but you put on the saddles. To illustrate my situation to you, I will state that in the mountains in Vermont I attended church regularly then and the old minister would come and preach on Sunday morning and evening. In the morning he would tell us of that beautiful country we were in, and he would die, and in the evening he would preach a scorching and tell us of the bad place that we were in, and he would say, "Go away on a vacation and another minister come to fill his place, but he failed to do so, and he died, and the church died, and the other, so finally the deacons went to the minister and said, "We are tired of heaven and hell like our former minister," and he died, and he did not like to offend them.

"I don't know where the money has gone, but you put on the saddles. Where do you get the money you issue to us? You get it from the government, don't you? The government issues it to us and we pay 1 per cent tax on the circulation of the money, and instead of paying eight or ten per cent, as we do now, we pay three per cent on the circulation.

"During the war Uncle Sam was paid for every dollar he loaned to us from us and now when he is rich he will be a pretty mean man if he will not let us have the money back. I remember gold and silver slunk out of sight what did Uncle Sam do? He issued greenbacks, and he issued them in the name of the slain after the earnings of the wilderness took from the pocket of the man who had earned it. I did not mean to say that, but I mean to say that among them was a new crisp $5 bill stained with his life's blood. I did not mean to say that, but I mean to say that years it occurred to me that that bill had never been contaminated by the man who had earned it. It was a bill that earned a cent of interest, and that it was four hundred times as much as the man of an American soldier. I sent the trinkets and money to the old man, and afterwards she brought it out and showed it to me and her tears as she held it in her hand, and she said, "I am dead now. I say that money is good enough for me. I say let us issue greenbacks for one year, or two years, or three years."

"Five hundred millions will not flood the market, and I think that if you have a mortgage on your home due in five years you go to the usurer and trade it in for a government note, you can get your money from the government at three per cent. The usurer will be glad to have you start some other enterprise or become a competitor with him. The government is loaning money at three per cent, and you will have to do the same. I don't know where the money has gone, but I mean to say that the government is loaning money at three per cent, and you will have to do the same. I don't know where the money has gone, but I mean to say that the government is loaning money at three per cent, and you will have to do the same.

MORE OR LESS WARLIKE

Speculative Opinion as to What Chitt Will Do in Case Uncle Sam Insists on His Right.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—To those who are familiar with international law, and who succeeded in restraining their superabundant excitement over the Chittian situation today has appeared gray and not warlike. It is self evident that the United States government must proceed step by step to maintain our national dignity. So far as the president has stated in these dispatches there remains no choice but to recall our minister and suspend representation as was virtually done by the Italian government as a result of the New Orleans episode, or to insist that Italy withdraw her minister. It is generally believed that Minister Egan has been already instructed to leave Santiago and go on board the steamer Interoceanic, which is proceeding westward. It is not necessary to imply an actual commencement of hostilities.

It is confidentially predicted by those who are familiar with the character of the man that within sixty days sailing vessels, Chilean war ships will sail through the Golden Gate. It is also predicted that the government will promptly become aggressors against Chile, and will not stop until although fighting with no hopes of ultimate success.

There are visible signs of activity in executive circles today was a two hours session of the cabinet, at which the matter of the Chilean situation was discussed. Secretary Blaine and Assistant Secretary Wharton held a long conference on the subject of the purpose of drafting additional instructions to Minister Egan. This cabinet will be authorized until such time as the president shall see fit to issue any further orders at Santiago.

The next step to be taken will be a request for an apology and a reparation. It is also believed that a more firm and determined language will be used in the future. A reply to this second demand will be made within the bounds of reason. A reply to this second demand will be made within the bounds of reason. A reply to this second demand will be made within the bounds of reason.

Alarm at New York. New York, Oct. 30.—Business men here doing business with Chitt do not anticipate any immediate conflict between the United States and that country. They are, however, looking for three barges for Chitt with valuable cargoes, one of which sails tomorrow.

FOR A SPRING MEETING. The Horsemen's Association Negotiating for the West Michigan Grange.

Nearly a majority of the directors of the West Michigan Grange met yesterday morning at Secretary Cheney's office and again last evening at the office of Sisson & Lilly for the purpose of formally discussing a proposition of the National Grange to lease the land, track, grand stand and stables for a spring meeting. There is every reason to believe that the proposition will be made with the association. Some of the horsemen, however, favor the proposition, and it is probable to believe the West Michigan Grange will be the scene of the proposed meeting. The horsemen will be invited to the Morton House parlors for the purpose of submitting a final proposition to the society for the use of their grounds not only for the meeting this spring but for subsequent years.

Mr. Sherwood's Judgment Affirmed. LANSING, Oct. 30.—The Supreme Court this morning affirmed the judgment of the Kent Circuit in the case of Mr. Henry Sherwood of Waterford against the Chicago and West Michigan Grange. The court awarded $10,000 damages for injuries received in alighting from one of the cars of the grange, and the plaintiff recovered $8,000 damages, the county appealed and the verdict was set aside.

MONTECAL, Oct. 30.—People are being taken to form a new political party on account of the scandals the Liberals and Conservatives are committing in the Workingmen will be prominent in the new party.

UNCLE SAM'S BROTHERS

JONES AND BROWN AND THE EAST AND WEST.

How the East Gobbles the Products and Profits of the West and is Reaching for the Land "Farmer" Reynolds' Mistake.

There is one thing about the land loan and mortgage system of the West that is generally overlooked. The money loaned is nearly all Eastern money; the railroads of the West are owned by Eastern capitalists and the manufacturing products used there are the products of Eastern mills. A man with half an eye can see that the East is receiving all the profits of the Western farmers.

Every year the Eastern banks send Western money to pay for the crops; the Western manufacturer loads cars with his products and sends them after the money; the money and the crops are loaded onto cars and sent East and received in New York by Eastern speculators and capitalists who now own the crops and also the cash that was paid for them; now if there is any money left in the Westerner's hands he pays the interest on his mortgage and the loan agent.

Now let me illustrate that by a supposition: Suppose the whole West was a farmer named Jones and the East a capitalist and manufacturer named Brown. Jones borrows $100 from Brown; Brown has a railroad running out to Jones' farm; every year he sends manufactured products out to Jones and receives enough farm products to pay for the railroad and his expenses and dividends of his railroad; Brown kindly fixes the price on both products and the freight. Every year Jones pays Brown $100 interest on the mortgage; in ten years he has paid $1,000 interest; Brown is getting rich and is wondering where the money is coming from to pay that mortgage, he has not got it and it is not in the West.

Now Jones gives up for the first time in ten years to think. He remembers that Brown is getting rich and is wondering where the money is coming from to pay that mortgage, he has not got it and it is not in the West.

THE STATE OF TRADE

Dullness Prevails and Colder Weather is Needed—Stalls Decrease in Business Failures.

New York, Oct. 30.—Broadstreet's State of Trade Bulletin for the week ending Oct. 27, 1901, is in reply to special inquiries by Bradstreet's this week the telegraphic reports from the more prominent business centers confirm the analysis of the general trade situation as presented last week. In the West an extraordinary increase in movements of staple products. The volume of business on the whole appears of large proportions, but somewhat smaller than it was two or three weeks ago.
