

MORNING RAISED

A FLURRY WITNESS ATTACKS MRS. HAYDEN'S CHARACTER

A Dall and Froy Forenoon in the Brown Will Case Followed by Another Lively Session After Dinner - Astonishing Story of a Talkative Witness

The Circuit court presented the same antedated appearance yesterday morning as on the previous days of a somewhat prosy nature.

Thomas Deary, a resident of Grand Rapids for thirty years, was the first witness called. Knew Jockey Brown very well, saw him about every year.

Had heard him talk about 75 or 85 he said he had made his will. In that conversation he said he had made his will and "all his—will break it."

He had had business with Mrs. Brown and considered him a shrewd buyer. Had a very good memory. Will Brown was always with him when he was buying a stock of goods and locking them up for a year or so and that he bought a drug store.

He was not sure that I saw him, though I am of the impression that I did. Have had a great many people before me whose sanity was in question.

It was very difficult to determine whether a person is of sound mind even after a careful examination. It is even the case that men are insane upon one question and sane upon all others.

That he had been notified by Mr. Collins, the administrator, that it must be paid. Mrs. Haines had told Mr. Collins not to press it as he was to be a witness.

He had been notified to pay the money to the Brown estate in the will of Will Brown and Mrs. Hayden to his wife.

AGAIN UNTO THE NEXT GOOD DAY

Margaret never said that she had been notified by Mr. Brown in 1890 that she had expected Alice would make trouble.

He told me his wife put cayenne pepper into Margaret's eyes for a purpose. The reason he told me this, I asked him how Margaret told her she had been notified by Mr. Brown to put cayenne pepper into her eye.

He told me that he was in 1881 but once about the will. Never saw Alice until I saw her in court, and have known her since. He said that he had told me how Margaret was to have the money.

ANOTHER BRIGADE

THOUSANDS OF HUNGRY WORKMEN THROUGH THE STREETS AND DEMANDS FOR WORK

Denied Help Themselves—An Orderly Mob—Few Prisoners Taken

BERLIN, March 4.—Despatches received here tell of another riotous outbreak on the part of the suffering laboring classes. It occurred at Danzig to-day.

Danzig, which is the capital of the province of West Prussia, is a commercial center of no little importance. It has numerous breweries, distilleries, flour mills, sugar refineries and soap works, all of which have felt the depression in the commercial world.

Today, in connection with a notice, 800 men proceeded to the landing stage in the expectation that they would be conveyed to the municipal sewage farms and put to work.

While this work of distribution was in progress, a riotous mob of the poor, street arabs and other elements, who were greatly outnumbered, at bay by the police, with their stones, or charging upon the rioters, and were driven back to their quarters.

THE THEATERS.

ONE OF THE MOST DELIGHTFUL COMEDIES seen on a stage in this city in many years was witnessed at Powers' last night by a large audience.

The excellent creation is "All the Comforts of Home," which was written by the dramatist who has embodied in the cast as talented people as could be produced.

The play is simply irresistible, and fun runs riot from start to finish. It would be impossible to place in type the merits of the members of the cast. Each in their order completely fill their roles, and taking them as a whole, are beyond comparison.

First and foremost among the lady members is Kate Denon Wilson who fills the role of Josephine Bender, the cantankerous wife of Theodore Bender, so admirably that the audience is forced to applaud between the lines.

The next is Miss Maud Haslam, who assumes the character of an opera singer. Her methods are so quiet and her acting so charming that the male portion of the house, and her graceful carriage.

Johnnie, the boss of the boarding house, was excellent, as was Herbert Ayling, Jacques Maud, and E. Lann. The rest of the members.

A number of theater parties present were particularly happy. The show was perfectly safe and the evening more pleasant than they did watching William Gillette.

Downing's Creoles will close their engagement at Smith's opera house to-night and will be succeeded by the Bell Brothers Specialty and Comedy company.

The lecture on "Columbus" by Rev. Fr. Naget of Des Moines, which will be delivered under the auspices of the Press club and Ancient Order of United Workmen.

The new Society Paper will be a beautiful one. It is the first appearance today under circumstances and conditions most favorable for success.

POLITICAL OUTLOOK... The Republicans have given their central club the name of Lincoln.

These two names do not carry the distinction that exists between the parties. In fact as the parties stand these names are arbitrary assumptions without significance.

The issues that Lincoln stood on have passed away. His name has no significance for either the Democrats or Republicans at this time. He was a Republican in 1860 because he was opposed to the further spread of slavery.

Mr. Howell asks how much better national banks are than banks established under state laws. It cannot be said they are any better as mere banks of deposit, unless it is that they are subject to a more thorough examination.

A QUESTION OF BANKS... Mr. Howell asks how much better national banks are than banks established under state laws.

THE MORNING PRESS only expressed its preference for national banks over state banks as banks of deposit, providing banks of issue must exist, against the necessity of any bank of issue.

The People's party Eighth ward nominations are received with favor. Mr. Stannons is regarded as a good man for supervisor. Mr. Tea for alderman is a creditable nomination in every respect. He is a printer, sober, industrious, intelligent and a hard worker.

GENERAL ALGER was thrown from his horse by a bush at Booneville and left for dead on the place. Peace bath its casualties not less fatal than those of war. Alger has been unhurt again.

G. W. FAIRFIELD of this city has been engaged on plans and specifications for a court house at Newaygo and seems to have pleased the people up there with a beautiful design.

IS IT EXAGGERATED? Greek Church Priests Say There Is Little Softening in Russia.

CHICAGO, March 4.—If what four distinguished clergymen of the Greek church say be true there is little necessity for the people of this country to send supplies to Russia to aid the starving peasantry of that czar-governed land.

Of the condition of the people in Russia Mr. Ambrose said: "The crops of the winter were very short, while the supplies of food among the poor have been necessarily limited, there has been starvation and famine among the people are absolutely untrue. They are Bishop L'Esveque Nicolas, Mr. Brooks, Mr. Metropoulos and Mr. Soubouloff. They registered for St. Petersburg."

Regarding the alleged persecution of the Jews in Russia, Mr. Ambrose said that most of them had violated the usury laws and had been notified if they could not obey the laws they must leave the country.
