

HARRISON NOMINATED

THE FIRST BALLOT SETTLER THE QUESTION

The Blaine Men Make an Attempt to Stumble the Convention to McKinley, but the Effort is a Failure—Whitlow Held Chosen for Vice President.

MINNEAPOLIS, June 10.—The long agony, the din, the confusion, the anxiety, the tense excitement is over at last. Benjamin Harrison has been elected President and William McKinley Vice President.

The end when it came, came quickly with little warning of the kind which delighted a slowly upon the scene, heavy eyed and dull from their long season of the night before, and exhausted with the passionate strife of the foregoing days.

MR. WOLCOTT'S SPEECH

How the Man From Maine Was Placed in the Line

"Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Convention: The Republicans of the West sometimes differ with the Republicans of the East as to what is wanted, but on this occasion there is remarkable unanimity between genuine Republicans of the West and genuine Republicans of the East as to whom we need, and his name is Blaine.

The dramatic presentation of the name of Blaine, so unexpected, so decisive, took the convention by surprise. The name had been mentioned only because of the suggestive mind, the indomitable courage, and the untiring energy of the man.

Manhood and independence, the speaker said, were not barred among the Republicans of the West. He would demonstrate how short a life has slandered the name of Blaine, and how the country may repair the wrong of 1860 and that we may stamp with the seal of the republic the name of Blaine.

THE BALLOT

The Strength Developed by McKinley & Blaine

When the roll of names was called the cheering of the friends of McKinley & Blaine was quick and apparent. Alabama cast fifteen votes for Harrison. As the vote proceeded and vote after vote was recorded for McKinley, especially in the West, the cheering grew.

REID IS NOMINATED

The Evening Session Completes the Ticket

INDIANAPOLIS, June 10.—Delegates were slow in gathering this evening and it was 8:50 when the convention was called to order.

When Michigan was reached some one in the audience cried out: "What is the matter with Alger?" but there was only a slight laugh from the convention.

DR. CHANCEY DEWEY

His Elongated Presentation of President Harrison's Name

Mr. Dewey said that he had been occupied with the question of the nomination of Dewey. There was the same cheering as when Blaine was named.

THE PLATFORM

TEXT OF THE PLATFORM ADOPTED AT MINNEAPOLIS

A Very Good Platform, as Platform Go-Keeper Frank Allen says, "What the People Want."

MINNEAPOLIS, June 9.—The following is the full text of the platform as completed by the convention at Minneapolis. The representatives of the Republican party of the United States, assembled in general convention on the shores of the Mississippi river, the everlasting bond of an indissoluble union, whose most glorious chapter of history is the record of the Republican party, congratulate their countrymen on the majestic march of the nation under the banner inscribed with the principles of our platform.

We reaffirm the American doctrine of protection. We call attention to its growth abroad. We maintain that the prosperous condition of our country is largely due to the wise revenue legislation of the Republican congress.

We assert that the prices of manufactured articles of general consumption are reduced under the operation of the tariff of 1890. We denounce the efforts of the protectionists to destroy our tariff piecemeal, as is manifest by their attacks upon wool, lead and lead ores, the chief products of a number of states, and we ask the people for their judgment.

We point to the success of the Republican policy of reciprocity, under which our export trade has vastly increased and new and enlarged markets have been opened for the products of our farms and workshops.

We demand that every citizen of the United States shall be free and unrestricted in his public elections, and that such laws shall be enacted and enforced as will secure to every citizen, be he white or black, the sovereign rights guaranteed by the constitution.

The case of the people against Ed Troy for a deadly assault upon Patrolman Taylor was placed upon the calendar yesterday afternoon in Police court. Before opening the case Mr. Maynard in behalf of his client's rights informed the court and all witnesses that they should prove absolutely that Troy was innocent of any crime, and that he warned Mr. Taylor and all others who should testify in the case that their evidence would stand against them, and all who testified falsely against Troy would be held responsible for the same.

Mr. Maynard then proceeded to cross-examine Ed Troy, who on a stand objected, but upon the statement that it was for the purpose of testing the credibility of the witness, the court allowed the examination to take place.

HEARD AT WASHINGTON

How the Remittance Was Heard at the Capital

WASHINGTON, June 10.—The roll call of the convention which re-nominated Harrison for President and McKinley for Vice President, was held at the Capital.

There was not the slightest objection in the confidence of the president in the nomination of his followers and to be simply officially watching for the confirmation of a foregone conclusion.

The president expressed his gratitude and thanks to the multitude of friends who had gathered to witness the ceremony, and he expressed approval of his very conclusions, though possibly now and then they were not in full accord.

John Thompson was placed on the stand by the people yesterday in the examination of the case for resisting Officer Taylor at the corner of West Fulton and Straight streets, where he fell in with O'Donnell, Granger, Planders and others under arrest.

SATURDAY, JUNE 11, 1905.

THE PLATFORM. In real truth it cannot be said that the Republican platform is a great shakes. As a literary product it has no extraordinary merits. Its planks are mostly old and decayed.

The men of all parties will be glad to see the Republican approval of the tariff and all parties will reiterate that declaration. This is a singular little plank about Southern outrages. The human outrages perpetrated on American citizens for political reasons are denounced. It will be observed that there is no condemnation of lynchings for the rape of white women. At first glance the tariff and rear would take it that way that that is what the colored Republicans of the North have been asking for. It is only inhuman outrages, perpetrated for political reasons that are denounced. We all agree to that.

The plank favoring legislation by congress to protect the life and limbs of railroad employes, miners and factory hands is a thoughtful and timely declaration. It is too honest to be reiterated by all parties in dead earnest.

Among the queerly constructed generalities is the one declaring for the education of the children of the land, but while insisting on the right of every child to religious liberty opposes "any undue or church and state." Is that war on the parental schools?

The Democrats in congress anticipate the action of the United States in the admission of the remaining territories at the earliest practicable date, leaving due regard to the interests of the people of the United States.

The Democrats have voted the territories in, so far as the house of representatives could do it, but it is more than likely the Republican senate will not consider the interests of the people would be served by that action just yet. They will keep them out until the Republicans are sure they will gain senators, congressmen and presidential electors by letting them in. Then and only then will it be to the "benefit of the people" that they should come in.

The money question is slicked over with deception and duplicity. This part of the platform looks like a deliverance from John Sherman's hands. It is an exchange upon such conditions as will make the silver dollar as good as a gold dollar, and would make those conditions satisfactory to the European money power through the financial conference as an international conference. This is surely Shermanian. It is the present policy. This is the side of the creditor class. Parity of silver and gold is to be established and maintained by putting more silver in the dollar, but they are agreed to with England. Thus all double, public and private, contracted on a double coin basis would be appreciated about 50 per cent. This is a programme that neither can nor will force upon the world a crushing wave of bankruptcy, and no country would be hurried deeper under than wave than the United States.

The delicate little paragraph dedicated to temperance and morality can hardly be considered a stab to the whole, it is a straw to an elephant. It is so commonplace and pointer, that it had better been left unaided. This may be written might catch a gudgeon, but not a voter worthy of his rights.

HARRISON. Yes, Harrison got it on the first ballot. This is not what THE MORNING PRESS expected, talking Republican authority for it. It was believed that either John Harrison would get the first ballot, but that a strife would arise that would make McKinley the man. But it turns out that Blaine was not in it at all, and so Harrison has won. McKinley showed much strength as Blaine, and would have surely been the man had the nomination not been made on the first ballot.

Well, gentlemen, who are you going to do about it? Can Harrison get it? New York without Platt and Fassett? Can Harrison carry Indiana without the First Wayne district?

THE SNAP CONVENTION. Senator McMillan is boss. He is chairman of the state Republican committee. He is against Pierson and for Rich. It is his work that a state convention is called at Saginaw, July 20.

THE CALL IS ISSUED FROM MINNEAPOLIS BY A bare quorum of the state committee.

There is a strike in this singular move. It is the arbitrary doing of a man. The Republican party as his machine, that he owns by right of his good money he puts down for it.

Millionaire leaders are usually very astute and prescient. They are not so in possession of the machine. McMillan proposes to nominate Rich if he has to hold a snap convention and call it to a meeting of his committee on another snap convention. He has to stop Pierson's snap as a great is to stop Pierson's snap.

A great bank has closed its doors in London. The Oriental bank deals in transactions with silver countries and declares that its suspension is due to the depreciation of silver and the growing distrust of investment in countries that stand on a silver basis. If all the silver countries could be united in one world's Zolverin, banks doing business on a silver basis would be more prosperous than banks doing business on a gold basis. Silver is the money that effects the most important exchanges for the world, the exchanges that interest labor most. The business of the creditor class is to stock the head of the world, and the tourists of Europe, is done in gold.

The talk of the Blaine men against office holders running the convention is all humbug. The office holders are working to keep their places, and the other fellows are working just as hard to keep their places. The whole struggle is a scramble between office holders and office seekers. This, however, does not exclude the admission that there are good men to the convention seeking party positions. The whole party is for the sake of party policy, which they believe is necessary for the party's good. Those distinguished patriots are few and far between and do not control the action of conventions.

This quarrel over pensions at the Soldiers' Home is being played for a great where it belongs in the courts. The decision made will be the end of the trouble, whichever side wins.

WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE AGAIN got the cold shoulder in a national convention. With all their love for woman the men who run conventions are not loving enough to give the ballot to them.

The Republican national platform forgot all about the Minor electoral scheme or else they considered it of no consequence.

When was Alger when the light went out? Alas, his chances for a cabinet position are forever gone.

The Democrats of Alabama are not happy. The split is wide and threatens danger to the party.

THAT MORRIS doctrine little looks like an ancient piece of Democratic doctrine.

AN ADROMACK FISH STORY. A gold watch found inside a Pickered that had been swallowed.

The scene of the following incident was about forty miles from Grand Rapids, on a beautiful little lake just across the table land at Piscoe lake in the upper part of the state. There was no place being more than a mile wide, while it measures from two to three miles long. The day was all that a fisherman could desire, and every condition was right for good fishing. A party of three were in the boat, namely, L. E. Everett, his friend, Professor Spencer, and a young man, about twenty years of age, who had been with them less than half a day, and the size was good, weighing from 3 1/2 to 6 sizes. They had been around the "trucking point" was being made before we started for home. Everett, who was telling one of the boys, said:

"Go your brother, he's a good boy out for the way he pulls." "I expect let him play at one time near the foot of the lake before the fish could be caught. When he had been brought into the boat, he was not so large as some I had already in the boat, but there was a chance of a big one. I saw him. Soon the line was drawn so lightly it was necessary to let him play again. Then brought back it was discovered that a large pickered had been taken. The boy caught on the hook, which was now quite exhausted.

The big canoe followed, shark-like, for the dead body of his victim, which, however, we were not disposed to give up. But as Everett was about to throw the fish on his hook into the boat the professor took up the oar, hoping to strike and thus capture the large one. The movement of the oar attracted the attention of the fish, and in a twinkling he made a pass at it. The blade was about seven inches wide, but his jaws were stretched across the blade, and he was saving a grove in either side with his sharp teeth.

AN ATHLETE TALKS.

SENSIBLE ADVICE FROM THE LIPS OF A PERFECTLY MADE MAN.

How a Perfectly Made Man is Constituted—Why It That Girls Are Often More Healthy in Appearance Than Their Brothers—How to be Healthy.

She had been to church. As she walked home she looked up and saw Muldoon.

From the very beginning women are liked big men—men who are physically big—and when they by some accident do care for little men it is to be on the whole, a woman is a civilized creature, there is a certain pleasure in the knowledge that many, if not most, of her kind, to kill you with a blow. The woman who has not had this sensation is the one who has cultivated the original source of fresh emotions. Consequently Hercules is to a woman more beautiful than Adonis, and if she admires a man who mentally is strong, a thousand times more does she care for the man when it will govern by physical strength and become what Swinburne calls "King of Pain." You can't deny that, nor explain it, but it's true.

The challenging young woman who met Mr. Muldoon was inquisitive, and she made up her mind that she was going to get some of her own. She was beautiful from her head to her feet, and she was beautiful from her head to her feet, and she was beautiful from her head to her feet.

"One whose neck, hips and calves all measure the same," said the girl. "It was a bit impertinent, but that is the prerogative of a woman and so she asked, 'Do you?'"

"Then she inquired, 'What is the reason that one walks in New York City with a head like a hammer, looks more healthy, walk better, and from a physical standpoint are better specimens than men?'"

"Well," said he, "the trouble begins with the care of the boy when he is a little chap; everything here is sacrificed to the culture, and the woman is not paid much attention to. You see the sons of rich men are not so large, and the specimens, killing themselves with cigarettes, smaller and less strong than their sisters and having no strength physically. A good many of them are cowardly. Train a boy morally and physically first, and his brain will respond when you call on it. Train the brain at the expense of the body and you have just such specimens of manhood as you laugh at."

"Mr. Muldoon, when you get a man down and are looking him straight in the eyes and know that you have him almost in your power, what are you thinking of?"

"I am thinking only of one thing, and that is where I can best get a hold of him and how I can best keep him where I want him to be."

"Then he was asked, 'How long have you been an athlete?'"

"Since I was fifteen years old, and I am now forty-one. I weigh 215 pounds in my clothes, 205 in fighting trim, and I can do anything you ever need tobacco and I don't drink."

"What do I think of women? To be quite honest I am afraid of them. They are not so trustworthy as horses or dogs. Like a womanly woman, a woman who is gentle and affectionate and who is clean, I like a woman whose face is clean, not dabbled all over with rouge and powder. I like a woman who has little bit of consideration for a man, and who, while she is willing to give her devotion and love, is ready to return it with affection and kindly thought."

"But do you love to tell you what is killing her the population of this country?"

The inquisitive one said she did—she was a seeker for knowledge.

"Well," said he, "the trouble begins with the care of the boy when he is a little chap; everything here is sacrificed to the culture, and the woman is not paid much attention to. You see the sons of rich men are not so large, and the specimens, killing themselves with cigarettes, smaller and less strong than their sisters and having no strength physically. A good many of them are cowardly. Train a boy morally and physically first, and his brain will respond when you call on it. Train the brain at the expense of the body and you have just such specimens of manhood as you laugh at."

"I think there are 100 good women to one good man, and when a woman makes a mistake it is usually the fault of a man. It is perfectly nonsense, however, shooting such creatures, as we have heard of lately. They ought to be caught by the name of their necks and tossed out of a window and left to get along as best they can."

"Who is your favorite actor?"

Motors Witehcraft.

In divers villages in Pennsylvania, some of them in the Dundark settlements, are women who are supposed to be witches. Some are shrewd enough not to apply their arts for strangers, but to those whom they know, as stated in a newspaper article some years ago, they will sell charms to ward off lightning from buildings, dry up the weeds of the enemies of applicants, force cows to give bloody milk, cause sickness in the family, destroy beauty, separate man and wife and convert the very best lovers into Dr. Buckley in Century.

A Remarkable Growth. Wonderful things happen in Ireland as well as elsewhere, if the following can be considered for, which is not likely. It is related that a woman in Ireland, on cutting open a potato at dinner, found in the center a half grown, though disclosed, it was in a good state of preservation, and is now a pretty specimen of a watch chain.—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Hard Question. Doctor—My goodness! This won't do, you don't eat enough. Sick Boy—You don't want me to eat, do you? Doctor—Indeed I do.

Franchised Hopes, Yet Swept. From a letter written by Mrs. Ada E. Hard of Groton, S. D., we quote: "Was taken with a bad cold, which settled on my lungs; cough set in, and finally terminated in consumption. Four doctors gave me up, saying I could live but a short time. THE THEATRE.

A fairly large audience swelled with the intemperate hat at Powers' opera house last night. The attraction was the Haskins Bernard Chase in a highly novel drama entitled "Uncle's Darling." The dogs, rollers, bears, etc., brought down the house. The scenes all adorned in color, and the animals were uproariously approved. Mrs. Chase, the star, was the main feature, around which the plot revolved, and her songs and banjo picking were well received. Manager Burroughs, the benefactor of the entertainment, realized a neat sum and the audience was well pleased.

Smith's theater is now the only theater in the city that is not closed for the season, and consequently the attractions billed are of the very best. Commencing Sunday night and continuing one week, Austin's Novelty show will give eight nightly performances with the usual matinees. The attraction is first class in every particular.

POLICE DEPARTMENT

THE MEETING OF THE COMMISSIONERS YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

An Increase in Salaries is Voted in the Fire Department—Inspector Eastman Warns of a Heavy Rain Tomorrow—Think Street Cars Will Be.

The chair usually occupied by President Lettelt at the board of police and fire commissioners' meeting was filled yesterday afternoon at the regular meeting by Commissioner Loeftiger, the next in line to succeed to the royal chair.

Members Hatch, Loeftiger, Bender and the reporters smoked imported cigars furnished by Commissioner Withey and everything moved along as smoothly as a greased pig until nearing the end of the session when the chair Commissioner Loeftiger occupied, evidently realizing that it was not carrying the accustomed weight, reared back and threw the commissioner into a very undignified attitude.

The superintendent asked that fifteen new patrolmen be appointed, which number would be sufficient for the coming year, but as the number asked for was deemed excessive the matter was laid over for a future meeting.

The report of the committee on men and discipline recommended that the fire marshal have his salary raised to $1,500, a decrease of $100. The superintendent of Fire Alarm Bellhouse receive $1,450, an increase of $100; adopted.

Frederick W. Webber, clerk at police headquarters, asked for an increase in salary; committee on finance.

Herbert D. Evans applied for position as police force and Henry M. Conroy for position as turnkey at the new police headquarters, which, together with the resignation of George J. Conroy for clerkship, were placed on file.

The superintendent of police recommended that a lot of 600 lbs. be purchased to relieve the team now on the new wagon, and that a new saddle be purchased for the chief of the sergeant, also that a buggy be purchased for the superintendent and the superintendent's committee on finance.

The sum of $10 was acknowledged received from Dr. J. H. Loeftiger, Superintendent of Police, for the return of property stolen at the time of the wedding. The money was ordered to be turned over to the Police Benefit association.

Commissioner Bender brought up the matter of allowing firemen forty-eight hours relief from duty in the month instead of twenty-four, as formerly. He quoted the case of several cities, taken at random, which was to the effect that nearly all the cities allowed their firemen many more hours than forty-eight, and that this city was unnecessarily severe.

He moved that the relief asked for be granted and that the committee on rules report for a buggy, and he stated that himself and the captain had been present frequently to go to different parts of the city for a buggy, and he stated that the department. Commissioner Bender pertinently asked: "There was anything the matter with the street cars and the committee on opinion was that the street cars were all right."

Superintendent Eastman was asked by Commissioner Bender if anyone had been killed by a street car since the place made vacant by the removal of Conroy. The superintendent stated that no one had been killed since the place was vacated.

The superintendent stated that the department had had a fireman appointed temporarily to the place, and Bender asked him pointedly why the board was not asked to fill the place if it did not think it necessary and was informed that it was.

After matters of finance had been discussed the meeting adjourned.

A Congressman Loses a Vote.

She had come down here with a large party, and was feeding her aspiring mind with the intellectual food supplied by all admirers of great men to be perpetually spread in the house of representatives. She was seated to see "her congressman." All the gallery occupants call them "my congressman," with the accent on the "my." She said along to the front seat all she brought up close to the wire net that confines the ambitions of the press gallery and keeps the news safe. A busy young man sat as close to it as he could, waiting for an explosion of oratory.

"Young man," whispered the old lady, "do you know Dr. Lodge—Henry Cabot Lodge, of Massachusetts, when you see him?"

The young man thought he did.

"Won't you show him to me?" the old lady whispered imploringly.

"Why, yes, here he is now," and he pointed to the speaker's chair. His hands were waving his pockets as usual, and peeping out from the festoons of his curly beard was a real fire cigar.

The dear old lady looked at him with rapture that slowly widened away and changed to a pained, shocked expression. She wiped her spectacles and looked again. The sight was too much for her. In a flash of horror she gasped, "But he is smoking a cigar!"

"Yes," the heartless young man responded promptly, "he is. He does it every day."

"But is it right in the house?" "Yes, indeed."

"Well, I don't think it is nice, and I shall never let James vote for him again."—Kate Field's Washington.

American Performer.

"It does not follow nowadays," said the druggist, "that because a toilet perfume is made in France it is superior in quality to one of American preparation. Cases are formerly in the case, but the art of making fine perfumes has long since reached its perfection of late years, in our own country that not more than one or two of the French perfumers are now sold in the United States today as was a few years ago. Nearly $3,000,000 worth of fine distilled perfumes are made in New York alone every year. Chicago manufacturers put a half as much on the market, and there are in Boston, Philadelphia, San Francisco, St. Louis and other large places, in New York City."

A MEXICAN LEGEND.

A Mythical Story of an Illustrious Valley of Gold in Eastern Arizona.

The story of the famous treasure of the "Madre Oro" is an old one. It comes from the Aztecs of Mexico. Somewhere in southeastern Arizona there is a small valley, about five miles long and two miles wide, walled in by towering mountains. The treasure is hidden there and it is impossible to climb down them, and there is only one entrance, through a cave, which is carefully hidden by Indians, who guard the treasure for the second coming of Montezuma. It is said that even among them the treasure is only known to the three men aged men, and is never communicated except when, on the death of one, it is necessary to give the knowledge into the keeping of another.

The valley itself, though surrounded by impenetrable rocks, is a paradise. Watered by the stream which flows through it, it is all covered with flowers and beautiful trees, through the branches of which bright birds chirp. The only reptiles seen are the gold snakes, with their glittering greenish yellow scales.

Stretching across the valley from one side to the other, there is a long line of its masses of virgin metal gleaming and glistening in the sunlight. It is said to be the richest gold mine in the world. The gold lies in it in great veins and nuggets, imbedded in clear quartz, the sharp angles of which glitter in the sunlight like gigantic diamonds. Across the ledge the stream flows, forming a little waterfall, below which the nuggets of gold can be seen in the water and out. Gold in the ledge, gold in the scales of snakes, gold in the stream, gold in the birds—gold, gold, gold, gold—the refrain of the golden story.

The fearful perils which surround the place, the strange ceremonies and horrid punishments which have been used to keep the secret safe, the tribe of Aztecs, living only to preserve for their mysterious treasure house of nature, have all added in giving to the story its strange interest. Small wonder is it that the pulse should quicken and the eye grow bright as you hear him talk from the lips of men who more than half believe it. The lonely desert surrounding you, with the fall cascading like ghosts in the half moonlight; the long drawn melancholy of the coyote's howl; the prospector's fire of grey wood, the noise of his pick, the clang and clang of the pickaxe, all vanish as you listen, and in imagination you are transported to the wonderful valley in which is the "Madre Oro," the "Mother of Gold."

Nor are they content to tell the story of the legend. They try to induce a number of white men who have seen the place, who have descended into the valley in some way and returned with all the gold they could carry. The location of the spot is always in a dangerous Indian country. I have been told twice that it was in the district of Sonora, and it is always said to have been found merely by accident by men who were either hunting or prospecting for ledges, about the only two occupations which will make unscientific men climb the mountains. It can only be seen from the upper end after the morning mists have cleared away. Then, as one stands on the rugged peaks and looks down, he sees the great ledge spanning the valley below him, and the sun glittering in the sunlight, and he knows that he has before him the place of which he has heard so much.

Only one man ever killed by a meteor. To the writer's certain knowledge there is but one case on record where a man or woman has been killed by an aerial fire or fall of meteoric stone. The fatally mentioned occurred in Whetstone township, Crawford county, O., in 1875, and is recorded in the Bucyrus Journal as follows:

As David Mienthaler, the famous driver of his cow to the barn about daylight this morning he was struck by an aerolite and instantly killed. It appears as if the stone had come down from a direction a little west of south, striking the man just under or on the right shoulder, passing obliquely through him from the right shoulder to just above the left hip, burying the greater portion of his body under itself in the dirt. The stone about the size of a wooden water bucket and appears to be composed of pyrites of iron.—Philadelphia Press.
