THE POPULAR SOVEREIGNTY PRESS.

We devote considerable space to the expression of the Democratic Press, throughout the land, upon late important political events. We do this for many reasons—not the least of which is this—we show by this that among the leading democratic papers the triumph of Douglas is received as the sign of better things to come—as the harbinger and herald of better days—when the Northern Democracy shall be speedily restored to their ancient supremacy.

This is no sectional manifestation of public sentiment. From Minnesota to Maine, and from Maine to Texas, the expression is the same. It may be that old standard papers like the Ohio Statesman, the Albany Atlas and Argus, the Hartford Times, the Richmond Enquirer, the St. Louis Republican, the St. Paul Pioneer & Democrat, the Worcester Mass., the N. Y. Journal of Commerce and the Cleveland Plaindealer, the Pittsburgh Post, and every other democratic paper in the country of any character or influence—it may be, we say, that they are all mistaken and deluded, and that the Washington Union is the only sound and "reliable" democratic organ now extant. We believe that no man capable of judging between the genuine and the spurious—the true and the bogus—and are willing to leave the subject with them.

How to defeat Douglas.
We call attention to an article from Mr. Fillmore's paper, the Buffalo Commercial, to be found in another column. The editor of that paper seems to have a clear apprehension of the difficulty of the job now on the hands of the opposition, which is the election of a President in 1860. He gives it up, and concludes that the Americans stand no chance to elect a candidate. He is equally sure that the Republicans cannot do it. He does not indicate clearly the tactics by which would defeat Douglas, but he seems to be vividly impressed with the idea that "something must be done." The fact is, the success of Douglas has upset all the calculations of the Opposition. They are at sea, upon a lee coast, with breakers ahead, without compass, pilot or chart, with a fair prospect of going to the bottom. So note it be.

THE SPIRIT OF THE DEMOCRAT.

We have before us extracts from the leading Democratic papers of the Union, relative to the Illinois election. The Ohio Statesman says:

It was Democracy against Abolitionism and negro equality, and the former has achieved a sovereign victory. To the people of our district, in the first place, belongs the honor of this transcendent triumph. Next, we claim that it covers with glory and renown, the champion of Democracy, of Illinois, Stephen A. Douglas, an indomitable, unyielding, unflinching, and powerful and sustained warrior, equalled only by that of those great men of the past.

Who's rotten old doctrine
Whose will be the people's
Shook the Union, and shattered our free?
do we see this signal victory? It can in no wise be regarded as one of those sectional achievements of which alone our opponents are able to boast.

New York Journal of Commerce remarks:

Probably in the whole history of American politics, no contest comparable with this, has ever taken place, and its results must be the source of great personal satisfaction to the friends of Douglas and his friends. It has cost him several months of Herculean labor, and has called for the exertions of his physical, to which few men would have been equal.

We need not say that we are pleased with the result.

The New Albany (Ind.) Ledger says:

Thanks to a generous people, the battle has resulted in a victory for the right. The democracy have secured majorities in both branches of the Legislature, and the Democratic will be triumphantly re-elected to the U. S. Senate, to fight the battles of the National Union, and to continue the struggle against heretics alike of Northern Abolitionists and Southern fire eaters. The efforts of Judge Douglas, we cannot doubt, will be devoted to the exciting of the strongest of great Democratic party of the nation, so that in '60 it will present a united front to the common enemy.

From the Albany (N. Y.) Atlas and Argus:

The result of the Illinois election, is one of great significance. It shows that the judgment of the people upon the subject is distinctly presented, disembarassed of collateral issues, emphatically approves of the Democratic platform, and that the danger asserted in the original Kansas bill, and laid down in the Cincinnati platform as a leading principle of the Democratic party, is the doctrine of Congressional intervention and of "no more slave States," cannot, upon full investigation of the facts, be deemed a doctrine of northern popular sentiment. It is only when the Republican politicians can contrive to project a candidate in a district, who will not prejudice it and the public mind with irrelevant issues, that a decision in favor of the Republican section can be achieved.

The result of the Illinois election proves that the Democratic party of the nation can stand and triumph upon a grand and simple issue—its creed in relation to the slavery question, and that the people of the North, no less than those of the South, are content to leave to the people of the territory the issue of their domestic institutions, and to allow them to come into the Union with or without slavery, as they may determine for themselves.

It will be seen that the Democratic heart beats in unison, in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, New York, and in fact, every State in the Union. There is only one note of discord—that comes from "SIN" JOHNSON and his contemptible and insignificant echoes.

BUT ONE SENTIMENT.

We hear but one expression in regard to the transactions of the Board of Canvassers. The publicans and Democrats all agree that the vote for N. Robinson should be counted for Nelson Robinson. They were intended for Nelson Robinson, and the intent is what honest men want to get at. If these votes for N. Robinson had been counted, then there would have been a tie. In such a case, according to statutes, two ballots are placed in a box, one marked "Elected," and the other marked "Not Elected." The two candidates then proceed to draw, and the one that draws the ball with the word "Elected," upon it, is elected. The friends of Mr. Robinson claim, and claim justly, that he has just as much right to the office as Mr. Daniels. He has got possession, and we hope he will keep it.

WHY MR. BRODHEAD SITS.

If we only could see Brodhead (a Democratic Senator) as a political opponent, perhaps the question would not be put. We know him as a gentleman who has fine feeling, and has occupied many places of honor. He has been acting Secretary of this State; he served with a Field office of the 15th U. S. Infantry; he has been Postmaster of Detroit; and would have been defeated in fact, and by the only true test—the intention of the voters—who has borne the name of his opponent passed by mistake upon the name of another candidate, instead of his own. Under the circumstances, will Mr. Brodhead sit? Lansing Republican.

THE MICHIGAN CENTRAL LINE OF STEAMERS.

The Michigan Central line of steamers, consisting of the Mississippi, Plymouth Rock and Western World, will be put in operation again on the 1st of December. The boats will be put in operation on the 1st of December. This line of boats has lain idle during the whole summer, but it has been found that the interests of the corporations owning them can be much better served by keeping them running than in allowing them to rot at their docks.

It was Democracy against Abolitionism and negro equality, and the former has achieved a sovereign victory. To the people of our district, in the first place, belongs the honor of this transcendent triumph. Next, we claim that it covers with glory and renown, the champion of Democracy, of Illinois, Stephen A. Douglas, an indomitable, unyielding, unflinching, and powerful and sustained warrior, equalled only by that of those great men of the past.

Who's rotten old doctrine
Whose will be the people's
Shook the Union, and shattered our free?
do we see this signal victory? It can in no wise be regarded as one of those sectional achievements of which alone our opponents are able to boast.

New York Journal of Commerce remarks:

Probably in the whole history of American politics, no contest comparable with this, has ever taken place, and its results must be the source of great personal satisfaction to the friends of Douglas and his friends. It has cost him several months of Herculean labor, and has called for the exertions of his physical, to which few men would have been equal.

We need not say that we are pleased with the result.

The New Albany (Ind.) Ledger says:

Thanks to a generous people, the battle has resulted in a victory for the right. The democracy have secured majorities in both branches of the Legislature, and the Democratic will be triumphantly re-elected to the U. S. Senate, to fight the battles of the National Union, and to continue the struggle against heretics alike of Northern Abolitionists and Southern fire eaters. The efforts of Judge Douglas, we cannot doubt, will be devoted to the exciting of the strongest of great Democratic party of the nation, so that in '60 it will present a united front to the common enemy.

From the Albany (N. Y.) Atlas and Argus:

The result of the Illinois election, is one of great significance. It shows that the judgment of the people upon the subject is distinctly presented, disembarassed of collateral issues, emphatically approves of the Democratic platform, and that the danger asserted in the original Kansas bill, and laid down in the Cincinnati platform as a leading principle of the Democratic party, is the doctrine of Congressional intervention and of "no more slave States," cannot, upon full investigation of the facts, be deemed a doctrine of northern popular sentiment. It is only when the Republican politicians can contrive to project a candidate in a district, who will not prejudice it and the public mind with irrelevant issues, that a decision in favor of the Republican section can be achieved.

The result of the Illinois election proves that the Democratic party of the nation can stand and triumph upon a grand and simple issue—its creed in relation to the slavery question, and that the people of the North, no less than those of the South, are content to leave to the people of the territory the issue of their domestic institutions, and to allow them to come into the Union with or without slavery, as they may determine for themselves.

It will be seen that the Democratic heart beats in unison, in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, New York, and in fact, every State in the Union. There is only one note of discord—that comes from "SIN" JOHNSON and his contemptible and insignificant echoes.

THE SPIRIT OF THE DEMOCRAT.

We have before us extracts from the leading Democratic papers of the Union, relative to the Illinois election. The Ohio Statesman says:

It was Democracy against Abolitionism and negro equality, and the former has achieved a sovereign victory. To the people of our district, in the first place, belongs the honor of this transcendent triumph. Next, we claim that it covers with glory and renown, the champion of Democracy, of Illinois, Stephen A. DEED.

AGUSTUS NEAL was found dead on Sunday morning, in his bed in Swarth's Mill. He was a stout, healthy, vigorous, healthy steady and industrious, and on Saturday evening witnessed the departure of the Detroit Lighter and retired to bed about 11 o'clock, perfectly well. The room, where he slept had recently been plastered, so that it was exceedingly damp. Before retiring he procured a pan of ashes and covered it up in the room.

In the morning he was found dead, with his hands across his breast, and evidently he breathed his last breath without a struggle. The physicians examined the case yesterday morning and it was determined that the dampness of the room, and the inhalation of the steam emitted by the pan of coals was the occasion of his death. This is a sad warning to all to avoid damp and newly plastered rooms.

The deceased was a brother of Mr. NEAL of the firm of HEAT & NEAL. His parents reside in Adrian.

P. S. The deceased was 32 years of age. A full mortem examination by the physician revealed nothing at variance with the above.

The funeral services are to be held by Rev. Mr. Greeley, at the Congregational Church, on Wednesday, the 17th inst., at 2 o'clock. The friends of the family are invited to attend.
